LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN, SATURDAY, AUGUST 12, 1911.

PRICE TWO CENTS

Heard On The White Way

NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to the Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

The subject of last week's "Guess Who's Here" was Hon. J. E. McConnell. The winner was Mrs. Pauline Anderson, 628 Main street.

GUESS WHO'S HERE

He's a mountain high man, big enough to call the squirrel "Little prig." He's angular and in the rough, exteriorwise. He scoffs at sentiment because he's so full of it, and his double-edged wit wounds the world in the region of its foibles. His office is dusty and musty, even to the selection from the classics that usually lies within reach of his hand, and he never delves into the elder philosophers without brushing up their deliverances with some by-product of modern wisdom. He laughs at the fools these mortals be, but seldom with them. He scorns a typewriter, and other modern conveniences. His briefs are the briefest of briefs, sometimes scrawled with a lead pencil on a yellow tab. He's a good man not to have on the other side, and a chat with him is as good as a tonic. He's as old as he feels, and his pal is a boy who's as young as he looks. Now don't let him hoodwink you.

YARNS OF THE TOWN.

The Taggart family had assembled for breakfast, and Master Gordon Taggart appeared looking decidedly displeased. Secretary Harry Taggart had secretaried and treasured the Grocers'-Merchants' picnic, and Mistress Vivian Taggart had won two races and carried off the prizes in triumph. Master Gordon had merely attended, not having been entered in any athletic event or endowed with any high-sounding official titles. However, he had distinguished himself by winning four boxes of candy on the roulette wheel.

When the call to breakfast had come Master Gordon had laid aside the Tribune, in which he had been reading an account of the big picnic. And, as has been said, he was slum.

"What's the matter, Gordon?" asked Daddy Taggart.

"Your name was in the paper, Vivian's name was in the paper. Everybody that won had his name in the paper, 'cepting me."

"What did you win?" asked Secretary Harry, curiously.

"Didn't I win the candy?" demanded the irate Gordon.

Taggart says it's so, and as that old geek in the "National Fifth Reader" said, "it must be true, my son, otherwise how could one tell it?"

Some adventurer had followed the grocers' picnic crowd to Dakota park. Harry Taggart had discovered him there, running a knife roulette game. Now anybody knows a roulette layout is a skin game, even without the knives.

Incidentally, weather and fate having frowned unkindly upon the picnic with distressing financial results, Secretary Taggart stroled over and, sizing up the frenzied one's winnings, said:

"How much velvet you got?"

"Seven sixty-five," said he of the sure thing.

and there are piles of lilies like those right here in our sloughs. Just gobs of them, and they are no more Lotus than those at Trempealeau. If the Tribune man will look up his botany he'll discover that the Lotus opens its blossoms only after nightfall and keeps them tightly closed during the day. Then if he'll go up some nice day and see the Trempealeau "Lotus" wide open like the saloons in La Crosse, he'll immediately see where he gets off at.—New Albin News.

In order to give the editor of the News a crack at another "nature faker," contemporary of The Tribune, we publish the following from the Lake City Graphic-Republican:

"Lotus lilies in the famous bed at the head of Lake Pepin are in bloom says the Red Wing Republican.

"Many people are gathering the lilies and although a few have appeared in the Twin cities and in Wisconsin, where they are being sold at the almost fabulous price of 25 cents a flower, but few have been seen in Red Wing.

"How this lotus bed, the fame of which has spread throughout the United States, came to be at the head of Lake Pepin perhaps will never be known. Many delight in accounting for its existence by the relating of a rather romantic legend.

"It is told that years ago a steamer was wrecked at this point at the head of the lake. The boat and all its cargo sunk. It had many lotus lily seeds aboard, direct from the river Nile in Egypt. These seeds took root and grew and blossomed into lilies.

"Scientists and historians recently, however, have rudely shattered the pretty legend, declaring that the Lake Pepin lotus lily is the 'nelumbo luteum,' an inferior specimen of the Egyptian lily.

"Be that, however, as it may, the bed a little north of Red Wing, is the largest and most famous in the United States. There is but one other bed of importance in the country—at New Orleans.

"Recently a bed has been discovered near Round Lake, Wis., and a few small ones have been found near Red Wing. These have all, however, beyond all doubt, come into existence by scattering seeds and bulbs from the famous Lake Pepin pond."

"I'd like to publish a contemporary of The Tribune for about a week," said Monaca Dunn.

Nobody seemed to care a copper, so Mr. Dunn proceeded without encouragement.

"I think I could write a mighty interesting editorial about an editor who got so mad because he couldn't catch any fish that he started to abuse the government," concluded Mr. Dunn.

And Mr. Dunn laughed loudly, while all others present frowned their disapproval. For he was alone with the editor.

Some bum ball team, what! Now, don't hit a cripple, Mr. Fan. You know, a good fan is a good sport.

Don't you know the Outcasts are playing ball on crutches?

Look who's out of the game; Weidell, the new find, who has had it on Winona and Superior, one of the best hitting pitchers in the league. It isn't merely the loss of Weidell, although that is some disaster, it's the fact that without him the other pitchers are overworked.

Then there's Crangle, left gardener, who was hitting 340, and there's Safford, who was hitting 315, and there's Kernan, who was hitting 314. Crangle is nursing a broken arm and Weidell is mourning the loss of his beloved appendix. Both are out for the balance of the season.

Safford is ailing as a result of over indulgence in a wire fence diet, and Kernan's wing is in a sling. Manager Bond has a sore side, as sore as some of the soreheads who can't see any merit in the game battle, with red hot close games, that the team is fighting.

Throw away that hammer, Mr. Fan, and put on a white apron and a soulful look. We want nurses, not knuckers. We have a very sick team, game every game it plays notwithstanding, and the only prescription any of you baseball dopesters have a right to write is this:

"A heaping tablespoonful of BOOST taken every afternoon at 3 o'clock."

"PREJUDICE TAFT CHIEF OF U. S."

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 12.—"Are you prejudiced against the defendant?" asked Attorney Brunk of N. Jordan, a salesman in the liquor selling case against Dan Duggan.

Jordan scratched his head. "Do you know what prejudice means?"

"Oh, sure. Prejudice Taft, chief of the United States."

Jordan was excused.

LABOR WINS ITS GREAT VICTORY

London Strike Results in Increased Wages and Shorter Hours for Thousands

'CORONATION PROTEST' ENDS

Great Crowds Swarm Markets and Madly Fight for Provisions; Police Helpless

Other Strikes Coming

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The labor situation throughout England, Scotland and Wales is extremely serious this evening. Jubilant over the success of the shipping federation, team drivers, and dock laborers' unions, the various trades throughout the country are preparing to strike to enforce similar demands. From a dozen cities came word that meetings of the union men had been called to decide whether demands for shorter working days and more money should not be enforced at once. The railway teamsters here are out, claiming the general teamsters agreed not to affect them, and their example has been followed at all suburban stations. Leaders of the railway strikers said tonight that if their demands are not granted immediately every teamster employed on every railroad in the country will be called out, tying up all freight traffic. Meanwhile the building trades unions here are conferring and will probably order a strike next week.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—With thousands of strikers returning to work today as a result of the settlement reached last night through the offices of the board of trade, steps are being taken to relieve the distress which has become acute as a result of the tie-up of food supplies. Orders have been issued for the removal of food and ice before all other freight and by tonight it is believed that the city will have been relieved.

The workers are jubilant over having gained the larger portion of their demands. The lighter men, whose demands were last to be settled, gained a ten hour day and a twenty-five per cent increase in wages.

The first work undertaken on the docks today was the unloading of food cargoes. It was found that an entire cargo of 35,000 mutton carcasses had spoiled and the consignment, valued at upwards of $200,000 had to be destroyed.

The teamsters of the Midland and Great Northern railroads struck today claiming that their union is not affected by the wholesale settlements. The strike threatens to spread to other roads, as the union has called upon the men on all lines not to handle freight coming from the roads against which the strike has been declared.

The terms of settlement increase the wages of the strikers approximately $3,000,000 a year. Preparations for a resumption of trade were kept up all night. Early today saw the market places crowded with the greatest throngs in years. Crowds at the docks were so great that the police were unable to control the thousands of shopkeepers and others who were madly fighting to obtain provisions.

The health authorities were particularly alert because of the grave danger of disease from decayed food. It is stated that many valuable cargoes will be ordered taken to sea and dumped into the ocean.

Having won the most sweeping and complete victory in the history of industrial struggles in England, the London union leaders were highly jubilant today. Ben Tillett, leader of the federation, today summed up the strike and its outcome for the United Press, as follows:

"This is labor's greatest triumph of a century. Not only are 100,000 workers and their families benefited by the increase of wages, which enables them to meet the cruelly high cost of living, but they receive material reductions in the hours of labor, giving them, for the first time in their lives, the opportunity of recreation and of getting to know their families. Heretofore they have toiled all their waking hours."

"But far more important than the material benefit has been the demonstration of the absolute power of the wage earner. The forces of capital are at last compelled to recognize that united labor can enforce the rights of the workers through their control of the food supply of the nation."

"Our 'Coronation strike' has also been a mighty protest against the barbaric splendor of the coronation spectacle, with the waste of millions of pounds, which properly expended would have mitigated the wretchedness of the poor."

SMITH ARRIVES TAKES CHARGE

Receiver of Water Power Company Visits Main Offices Here This Morning

MR. FERRIS ACTIVE FACTOR

Receiver Praises President and Says They Will Co-operate in Work to Be Done

Mr. Clement Smith, newly appointed receiver for the La Crosse Water Power company, arrived from Milwaukee this morning and at once took nominal charge of the properties. He called upon President W. J. Ferris at headquarters, and the two men shook hands cordially.

Mr. Smith, for obvious reasons, was not prepared to outline any specific plans. As a general policy he said it would be the endeavor of the receiver to arrange for the production of ample power at all times, and that he would immediately go over the ground with President Ferris to devise a method of procedure. At the present time the plant is operating satisfactorily.

The first step of Mr. Smith was to announce that President Ferris will remain as the active manager of the properties, and that the present force will be kept intact.

The bondholders' committee are well advised regarding the status of the business, and its history to date," said Mr. Smith to The Tribune. "They appreciate the faithful efforts of President Ferris, and understand thoroughly that there rests upon him no responsibility for the misfortunes that have overtaken the enterprise. We know he has done all that could be done, and we have not the slightest notion of depriving the concern of his valuable services. I expect to co-operate with him in bringing this unfortunate incident to the most desirable conclusion possible."

THE WEEK FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The weekly bank statement as issued today shows the following changes:

Excess cash reserve, increase $6,048,350.
Loans, decrease $27,506,000.
Specie, increase $840,000.
Legal tenders, decrease $456,000.
Net deposits, decrease $28,609,000.
Circulation, decrease $83,000.
Total loans $1,963,302,000.
The surplus of the banks is $21,593,500 as compared with $53,673,625 last year, and $23,734,950 two years ago.

(Copyright, 1911, by the New York Evening Post.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Even after yesterday's disconcerting stock market, the excessively violent break in prices at the opening of business today, took Wall Street by surprise. Volume of sales was very large—especially in Union Pacific in which a 4 1/2 point decline was scored in the first hour. Steel, Southern Pacific and Reading fell 1 to 2 points apiece, and the rest of the market was similarly upset, though the declines were less spectacular. As has been true on repeated occasions, this week the fall in prices itself was less disturbing to Wall Street sentiment than the fact that no explanation of the cause and origin of the urgent liquidation was obtainable. This kept back outside buyers and made even professional speculators cautious. Nevertheless at the extreme declines at the end of the first hour, buying orders appeared in sufficient quantity to check the decline and recover a good part of the earlier losses. The market was merely held at the recovery, and the closing left the situation still uncertain.

Thirty-five Aviators Enter Aerial Races at Chicago Meet, which Opens Today

EIGHT TYPES OF MACHINES

Great Prizes Offered Attract Famous Flyers of All Countries; Huge Crowd Expected

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Despite a hard rain and thunderstorm all night and early today, the weather bureau today prophesied that clearing skies and moderate winds late this afternoon would permit the opening of Chicago's great aviation meet, the largest ever held in America.

Thirty-five licensed aviators, with more than forty of the finest aeroplanes ever seen in the United States, are housed in Grant Park, on the lake front, where the meeting will be held. Seats have been arranged for 80,000 persons with standing room for 200,000 more.

Eight types of aeroplanes are entered. The Morane monoplane, in which Vedrines has made the fastest time ever recorded in a monoplane, will be seen for the first time in America, as will the Nieuport monoplane, in which Charles T. Weymann, the American, who won the Gordon Bennett cup in England last month. Weymann himself will arrive next week to drive his 100 horse power racer, the first time he has ever flown in this country.

The Wright brothers have entered eight machines, the first time they have ever entered a competitive meet without being paid an immense license fee. The Wrights made their plans secretly and have brought out a reconstructed Wright racer, similar to the wonderfully fast machine Walter Brookings smashed at Belmont park last year, just before the Gordon Bennett race. Brookings will drive this speedy aeroplane.

Glenn Curtis has entered several machines, while the Moisant flyers, in a Moisant monoplane—a copy of the Bleriot—also are entered. Prizes amounting to more than $100,000, will be contested for. The meet will last through Sunday week. Strict "rules of the road" will be enforced.

POPE HAS RELAPSE

PHYSICIANS HURRIEDLY SUMMONED DURING NIGHT; RESTS COMFORTABLY IN BED TODAY

ROME, Aug. 12.—The pope remained in bed throughout today, it being said he rested more comfortably than seated in the padded chair. Machia Fava and Dr. Petacci, with their assistants, made a careful examination of his patient and reported that his condition was "relatively satisfactory."

He suffered a slight relapse during the night and his physicians were hurriedly summoned to the bedside by Dr. Amici, who kept vigil in the sick chamber. Dr. Petacci at once administered an injection of caffeine, which strengthened the heart action and removed any immediate danger.

After the injection his holiness rested more easily but took very little nourishment. Drs. Petacci and Machiafava, while making no statement, showed their disappointment and anxiety this morning because the pope had not made the improvement they had expected during the night. As a result they have ordered that the pope hold no audiences of any kind and all matters of church demanding his attention will be held in abeyance.

Pitiful Tale of Aged Couple Seeking Happiness in the "Golden West"

LURED FROM HOME IN EAST

All They Possessed Burned and Vivid Tales of Land Shark Starts Them on Futile Journey

Lured from the little town in New York state that had been their home for all the years of their life, by the lurid tales of a typical western land shark, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Jones, aged 82 and 72 respectively, have landed in the La Crosse county poor house penniless and hundreds of miles from their lifelong friends. They are not exactly without friends for the sad story of the aged couple's feeble attempts to grasp fortune in the "Golden West" has aroused the sympathies of all who have heard their pitiful story and it is possible that a fund will be raised to once more establish them in a quiet little cot back east.

Abner, as he is affectionately referred to by his wife, was for years the "village smithy" in the little town of Lyons, Wayne county, New York. From early youth until ripe old age he worked over the forge and was known for miles around as the most proficient of horseshoers. He was content at his work for every ring of the hammer on the anvil meant so much more towards the little cot he was building for himself and faithful wife. Work to him was not toil.

At last the home was paid for and then he started on the savings that were to do for the proverbial rainy day. Cents went into dollars and dollars into hundreds until finally he had amassed the magnificent sum of $800. This, with a cow and a well tilled garden—the latter the results of Martha's labors—were enough to keep them the remainder of their lives and Hiram sold the shop and with his wife prepared to enjoy "the future we had planned."

WISCONSIN SENATOR IN THE TOILS

Resolution Adopted To Investigate Bribery Charge

BIG FIGHT STARTS

Committee Given Sweeping Powers To Compel Witness To Attend

IS THE OLDEST SENATOR

Action Follows Memorial Submitted Recently By Wisconsin Legislature

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The senate this afternoon adopted a resolution providing for investigation of the election of Senator Isaac Stephenson (Rep., Wis.) to that body, with specific instructions for the investigating committee to ascertain whether money was corruptly used in the Wisconsin legislature.

The resolution was offered by Chairman Dillingham (Rep., Vt.), of the committee on privileges and elections.

The resolution was adopted without discussion. It gives the committee sweeping power to compel the attendance of witnesses and to punish them for contumacy.

Spent $107,000.
The decision of the senate to investigate Stephenson's election resulted from a memorial submitted recently by the Wisconsin legislature demanding such investigation.

In a statement filed with the state authorities at the time of the election, Stephenson admitted that he had spent $107,000 in the primaries to insure his choice by the legislature.

The Wisconsin senator is the oldest man in the senate and one of the richest.

La Follette Friends Pleased.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 12.—The action of the senate today voting to investigate the election of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson and his use of $107,000 in his primary election campaign in 1908, while not unexpected here, caused a sensation in political circles. Friends of Senator La Follette, who caused the legislature investigation of this matter to be made here two years ago, express pleasure, declaring that it will attract attention to this state's disgust that its voters were debauched and purchased with money three years ago, and that as a result of this disgraceful campaign good has already come in the new and drastic corrupt practice legislation enacted by the legislature recently adjourned.

Friends of "Uncle Ike" claim to be complacent, declaring that the investigation at Washington will disclose that Senator Stephenson spent not less than $450,000 in the cause of Senator La Follette when the latter was building his political organization which is now supreme in this state.

STORK VISITS STATION

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Two arrivals not on the time card caused excitement at the Union Station. Both were boys and both weighed six pounds. Mrs. Milton Weaver, Waterloo, Iowa, was taken to the county hospital.

HEAT-DANGERS FOR CHILDREN

The little folks do not stand the heat as well as their elders, and special care should be taken to keep them in good physical condition. One of the things to be especially watchful of is the condition of the bowels, which presents many dangers hardly dreamed of by parents. When the child shows a tendency to constipation, if it loses appetite, complains of headaches, it fails to sleep well and awake refreshed, the mother may be certain that the child needs a tonic-laxative with ingredients such as are contained in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, of which most mothers have heard and which thousands of mothers are using for themselves and their children. Indigestion is one of the worst troubles of child-life in the summer time, and it manifests itself in many different ways. Whatever the cause and whatever the manifestation the mother may be sure of removing the trouble with a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which should always be kept in the house for emergency. It is sold in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and can be obtained of any druggist. Those who have never used it and wish to make a test of it before buying, can obtain a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE by addressing DR. W. B. CALDWELL, 400 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill.

BAD WASHOUTS ON BURLINGTON LINE

New Tracks at Cassville Undermined and Other Damage Reported Here

Washouts on the newly constructed tracks of the C. B. & Q. railroad Thursday night at Cassville and south of there, resulted in several of the trains being late. Rain fell at that place for about two or three hours the new embankments were damaged slightly, a few feet of concrete being washed out in places, thus making the morning trains late. No. 47 was eight hours late, not arriving here until noon today, while No. 49 was five and one-half hours behind the scheduled time. Nos. 48 and 50 were between two and three hours late.

The washouts were repaired early yesterday and the tracks were soon gotten into a condition so that trains would be run.

The C. M. & St. P. also had some washouts on the Dubuque division last night as a result of the rainfall and yesterday they were running their Dubuque trains over the Burlington road. However, although the tracks have been washed out, in places the regular trains will be running shortly.

IOWA PASTOR DROWNED

IOWA FALLS, Iowa, Aug. 12.—Rev. George Forest, pastor of the Baptist church of Parkersburg, Iowa, was drowned in the Iowa river here last evening, while in bathing. He, with many other Baptists of the state, are here attending the Iowa Baptist Sunday school assembly.

Winning out doesn't mean wiring home for the wampus.

WISCONSIN NEWS

RAINFALL UNEQUAL

REPORT SHOWS NORTHERN PART OF STATE WAS TOO WET AND SOUTHERN TOO DRY

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 12.—Extreme moisture in one section of the state and extreme drought in the other are noted in Secretary R. W. Rowland's monthly report, which says: "The northeastern part of the state has had so much rainfall that some crops have suffered considerably. The northern, western and central parts have had sufficient rainfall and all crops are and have been good with the exception possibly of clover. The southeastern and central parts have and are suffering with severe drought. Grain was hurried to an immature ripening. Early corn headed before attaining its usual height and late corn must receive rain soon."

Speakers at a huge mass meeting at the City Auditorium tonight will discuss among other things the biggest problem before the socialists, that of finding work for unemployed, especially during the winter.

KNIFE FOR CONGRESSMAN

UNCOVER A PLOT TO OUST WILEY

Congressional Committee Learns that Others Indulged in Same Irregularities

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—That there was absolutely no difference in the employment of Dr. H. H. Rusby, for which Dr. Harvey W. Wiley was charged with the violation of the law, and the employment of members of the Remsen pure food referee board, sanctioned by the administration, was the opinion expressed Friday by Dr. L. F. Keblor of the drug division of the bureau of chemistry, the main witness today before the committee.

McCabe Domineering

Keblor threw light on Solicitor McCabe's attitude toward Wiley.

"McCabe is frank and does not mince words," he said. "I recall one case which shows how arrogant and domineering he is. Dr. Wiley told me to see the district attorney here and aid him in a pure food case. I did so. When McCabe heard of it, he telephoned me an unmerciful call down because I saw the district attorney without his permission. I told him I knew of no such order which would justify me in refusing to carry out an order from my chief. He finally threatened to report me to the secretary."

"Do you mean to say you cannot aid a district attorney in prosecuting violations of law?" asked Representative Floyd.

"Yes," answered Keblor, "and under a general departmental order we cannot talk to or give information even to members of congress."

Same Methods Used

Dr. W. D. Bigelow assistant chief of the bureau of chemistry, also under with Wiley for Rusby's employment, testified that a number of other experts were employed in exactly the same manner in which Wiley employed Rusby.

MAYOR FREES WOMAN FROM "CHAIN GANG"

IOLA, Kas., Aug. 12.—Authority of the mayor to pardon a prisoner sentenced in the municipal court, freed Mrs. Ella Reese and Judge Smeltzer's "chain gang" sentence imposed on her, today is a matter of record. Mrs. Reese's husband, from whom she had become estranged, induced her to leave town with him when Mayor Bollinger pardoned her.

As a result the first cases taken into court in the present moral reform wave may escape prosecution. Rev. Hoodline, a Holiness preacher, is under arrest, charged with immoral conduct, but with the disappearance of Mrs. Reese the state has no prosecuting witness.

Judge Smeltzer, admitting defeat in the case of Mrs. Reese, intimates he will sentence other women to the chain gang if convicted of vicious offenses.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappear.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

WISCONSIN DEATH RATE ON DECLINE

Bureau of Vital Statistics Report Shows Healthful Condition of the State

BAD EPIDEMICS ARE LACKING

Tuberculosis Leads All Diseases as Cause of Death; Now Less Prevalent

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—During the months of April, May and June, 1911, 6,938 deaths were reported to the state bureau of vital statistics, according to figures in the quarterly bulletin now being published. This is exclusive of 405 still-births and corresponds to an annual death rate of 11.7 per thousand estimated population. The estimated population of Wisconsin, based on the annual yearly increase from the state census of 1905 to the United States census bureau of 1910, is 2,333,815.

The death rate for the second quarter of 1911, when compared with that for April, May and June, 1910, of 11.6 per thousand estimated population, and the rate of 12.2 per thousand in 1909, and the rate of 11.4 per thousand for 1908, indicates a relative healthfulness of the state for this period of time during the last three years.

Epidemics Lacking

During the months of April, May and June, 1910, 6,984 deaths, exclusive of still-births, were reported. This shows a decline of 46 in the number of deaths recorded. The decline in the number of deaths is due, in a large measure, to the absence of any serious epidemics of typhoid, diphtheria or scarlet fever, which are apt to be prevalent at this season of the year.

Important causes of death with the number of deaths from each disease are as follows: Pulmonary tuberculosis, 583; other tuberculosis, 89; typhoid fever, 70; diphtheria, 56; scarlet fever, 56; measles, 84; whooping cough, 5; pneumonia, 738; diarrhea and enteritis under two years, 174; meningitis, 149; influenza, 57; puerperal septicemia, 42; cancer, 358; violence, 418; still-births, 405.

Comparing the number of deaths from certain causes for the second quarter of 1911 with a similar report for 1910, there is found a decrease in the number of deaths reported as follows: Other forms of tuberculosis, 17; typhoid fever, 45; diphtheria, 29; scarlet fever, 50; and cancer, 29. There was a decrease of 73 in the number of the deaths under one year of age, and a decrease of 94 in the number of deaths among children from one to four years of age.

Northern Section Healthful

There was an increase in the number of deaths from certain diseases as follows: Pulmonary tuberculosis, 52; measles, 43; whooping cough, 12; pneumonia, 40; diarrhea and enteritis under two years, 17; meningitis, 23; puerperal septicemia, 8; violence, 50; still-births, 106.

The northern section of the state had a death rate for this period of 10.5 per thousand, while the rate for the central section was 11.7 and for the southern section 12.3.

The following deaths from violence were reported: Suicides, 91; accidental drowning, 90; railroad accidents, 52; accidental burns, 24; falls, 20; gunshot wounds, 16; horse vehicles and horses, 9; accidental poisoning, 8; automobile accidents, 7; street cars, 11; homicide, 7; sunstroke, 6; lightning, 5. Five deaths from anterior poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis were reported for this period of time.

STEAMER ST. PAUL PASSES LA CROSSE

Steamer St. Paul Thursday night passed through La Crosse on its first trip up the river since the accident which sank it at Quincy recently. The boat has been for some time tied up at St. Louis, where it was taken as soon as the holes in the bottom had been repaired at Keokuk. A meeting of the board of control of the Streckfuss line was held in St. Louis the early part of this week, and it was decided to resume the schedule of trips up the river since the water had risen nearly a foot since the accident at Quincy.

The boat has experienced no trouble in its trip up the river this time, according to Captain Streckfuss, and passed the dangerous rapids at Le Claire, Iowa, with ease.

It has a full passenger list, 212 persons making this trip. Many of those making the trip are parties who were on the steamer at the time of its sinking, who stayed over in St. Louis until it was decided to resume the schedule.

MOVE ON!

"Standin' on the corner, didn't mean no harm."

You'll find them standing there any evening from 8 o'clock until 11 o'clock, and while from their viewpoint they may not mean any harm, they are doing a lot of harm.

"Long come a cop an' he grabbed my arm."

Not on your life, not in La Crosse. However, it would be a good thing were the police to grab some of them by the arm. While the "move on" order may at times inconvenience men who are not abusing the privilege of the streets, it may have to be invoked to get the "masher" out of the way.

A woman, unattended, need not expect to walk along the down town streets at night without molestation. It may be "cracks" by "smart" youngsters, or it may be the approach of the professional lady killer. Of course she may occasionally run the gauntlet unmolested as far as speech and the laying on of hands are concerned, but she can not evade the covetous ogling of the libertine, not in her whole life.

It will be remembered that when Dr. Anderson closed the doors of certain elicit but winked-at resorts, it was said that thereby he had jeopardized the "decent" women by subjecting them to the unwelcome attentions of habitués thus forced to look elsewhere for favors. But at the close of his administration the lid was smashed, and had the line of philosophy thus satisfied stood the test, we might have expected the masher to disappear from the streets.

What would the police do were gangs of women to line up on the corners and smirk at and accost the men as they passed? Wouldn't there be a swift round up? And why are men immune from the same discipline?

We suggest that the mayor take immediate steps to abate this nuisance.

THE CITY WITHOUT WATER

For several days Charlotte, North Carolina, a city of thirty-four thousand inhabitants, was practically without a water supply. This does not mean, of course, that the inhabitants of the city were without water; but it does mean that the reservoir of the city consisted of but a trickling stream emptying into a mixture of mud, silt, and slime. For day after day whatever water ran through the mains of the city had come practically solely in tank cars on the railway, to be emptied from them into the city's water system. Of course individual householders here and there had access to springs and wells, some of which had long been condemned. Under the circumstances, however, even polluted water was better than no water at all. Until a city finds itself in such a condition as that in which Charlotte has been placed, its people have no idea how dependent they are upon their water supply. There was, of course, water available for drinking, but even water for this purpose did not come of itself into the homes, nor was it even found near at hand. The Charlotte "Daily Observer" gives a hint of what this meant: "Bottles, jugs, demijohns, kegs, barrels on wagons and on carts, were witnessed, morning and afternoon, conveying water from sources of supply granted gratuitously, or at cost, to the homes of the people in need of the outstanding necessity of life itself."

What was more serious, however, than the discomfort was the menace to health. Not only was there danger from polluted water, but there was also danger from empty and unflushed sewers. No one who has not gone through such a water famine can readily imagine how it affects almost every form of ordinary activities of life. Caution must be observed with every glass of water that is drunk; the bathing and washing that one ordinarily regards as essential are denied; machinery that is dependent upon water power is, of course, idle; even the machinery that is dependent upon steam may have to shut down. For instance, in Charlotte on one Sunday church organs were silent because the motors that supplied the pipes with air were dependent upon water power. What would happen were a fire to break out in a city under such conditions no one would willingly contemplate. Of course such a water famine as this leaves many evils in its train. It will be weeks, even months, before the citizens of Charlotte will cease to feel its consequences. It takes, however, such an experience as this sometimes to teach people how dependent they are, not only for the ordinary comforts of life, but even for health and life itself, upon honest and efficient government. We do not know all the details of the circumstances which led to this water famine in Charlotte, but we do know that no government that was both honest and efficient could have allowed it to happen. The fault may not lie with the officials now in office; it may lie with the system of government, or with the indifference or parsimony of the people. Let other cities take warning from Charlotte's experience. There were, however, some good things that came out of the evil. Not least of these was the neighborly action of other cities. Even so distant cities as Columbia, South Carolina, and Portsmouth, Virginia, asked to be allowed to help. Indeed, Columbia sent by rail a steam fire engine to pump water, and thousands of gallons of water were shipped from neighboring towns. Americans are rich in such qualities as generosity and good will; but there are occasions when they have the opportunity to see that even such good qualities cannot take the place of honesty and competence.—The Outlook.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Open to Conviction

Bill Sims was just about as "set" As any man I ever knew. As stubborn as a mule, and yet So far from knowing this was true That he believed himself quite free From prejudice that cases friction—

"I'm firm," he'd say, "as firm as can be, But still I'm open to conviction."

On questions of religion Bill His views would willingly explain. He'd talk from breakfast time until The cows came home, then start again.

What Providence intended had He always knew—with glowing diction He'd set it forth, and then would add: "But still I'm open to conviction."

Bill's wife had left him long ago. His children never came to see him. But not a person blamed him, no. Because to know him was to flee him.

But, all unconscious, Bill would cry: "A thankless child's a great affliction, I've not deserved such treatment, I— But still I'm open to conviction."

One day in court Bill had to plead To larceny—I can't offhand Just recollect the facts—indeed, Bill couldn't either on the stand. The case was proved, Bill got ten years—

This "getting" is a pleasing fiction— "I'm innocent!" cried Bill in tears, "But still I'm open to conviction."

—William Wallace Whitlock in Milwaukee Sentinel.

Forehanded Workmen

An industrial commission appointed by congress was conducting certain investigations with reference to the operation of mills and factories in various parts of the country, and the members became especially interested in the working of one mill in a southwestern state.

The investigators were in one room when the whistle blew for noon. The operatives put up their tools and vanished as if by magic.

"Do all the workmen drop their tools the instant the whistle blows?" asked one of the commission.

"No, not all," answered the man who was acting as guide. "The more orderly have their tools all put away before that time."—Lippincott's.

Homeliness

Gov. Dix at a luncheon in Albany said of a political leader who had been worsted:

"He will get a little of his own medicine back now. It reminds me of a story."

"A man entered an eating house and ordered a steak and fried potatoes."

"Yes, sir; steak and potatoes, sir," said the waiter. "And will you have chops and peas along with it?"

"No, thank you."

"Roast beef, then, perhaps, sir? The roast beef's very fine today."

"No, just steak and potatoes."

"How about a nice lobster or a brace of crabs, sir, with the steak?"

"No!"

"Shad-roe and succotash, perhaps, sir?"

"No, I tell you!"

"A nice mess of fried catfish and waf—"

"But at this point the proprietor summoned the waiter to him."

"What do you mean, you scoundrel," he said, "by tormenting that patron in such an outrageous manner?"

"Oh, I wasn't tormenting him, sir," said the waiter. "I was just trying to make him feel at home. He's a barber."

Tricky

"The new idea in business is honesty, openness, frankness," said Alton B. Parker at a dinner at Esopus. "We used to conceal our plumbing, and very poor, unsanitary work it was. We expose it now, and it is altogether sound and wholesome and satisfactory. Well, business is like that."

"When I think of some of the tricks that used to obtain in reputable business firms, I am reminded of the seaside auctioneer."

"This scoundrel once held up a $10 gold piece and said: 'Guess the date on this piece of money friends. Make a guess and a small purchase, and the correct guesser takes the coin.'

"So everybody in the crowd guessed, everybody bought some worthless rubbish, and the dealer netted a huge profit. Then at the end, he looked at the $10 gold piece, held it up and said: 'Now for it! Who guessed 1894?'"

"Me! Me! Me!" cried every man in the shop.

The dealer smiled.

"Then you all guessed wrong," he said, slipping the coin into his pocket. "The date is 1882."

He turned to her full now, and put out a hand, touching the covered lid timidly almost. "You are ill," he said. "Your eyes shine. I know. It's the fever. It isn't any time now for you to talk. Besides, until you believe me, I can not talk with you any more. I've been a little rough, maybe, I don't know; but as God made this world, those trees, that sun yonder, I never said a word to you that wasn't true. I've never wanted of you what wasn't right, in my own creed. Sometimes we have to frame up a creed all for ourselves, don't you know that? The world isn't always run on the same lines everywhere. It's different, in places."

"Will you tell me all about it—about her, sometime?"

"If you are going away, why should you ask that? If you are going to be nothing to me, in all the world, what right have you to ask that of me? You would not have the right if I had in speaking to you as I have. That was right. It was the right of love. I love you! I don't care if all the world knows it. Let that girl there hear if she likes. I've said, we belong together, and it seems truth to me, the very truth; yes, and the very right itself. But some way, we hurt each other, don't we? Look at you, there, suffering. My fault. And I'd rather it had cost me a limb than to see you hurt that way. It cuts my heart. I can't rest over it. And you hurt me, too, I reckon, about as bad as anything can. Maybe you hurt me more than you know. But as to our rights to anything back of the curtain that's before us, before your life and mine, why, I can't begin until something else has begun. It's not right, unless that other is right, that I've told you. We belong together in the one big way, first. That's the premise. That's the one great thing. What difference about the rest, future or past?"

"You've not been much among women," she said.

"Very little."

"You don't understand them."

"I don't reckon anybody does."

"Jeanne told me that she heard, last night, a child crying here in this house."

"Could it not have been a negro child?" He smiled at her, even as he stood under inquisition.

She noticed that his face now seemed pale. The bones of the cheeks stood out more now. He showed more gravity. Freed of his red fighting flush, the flame of passion gone out of his eyes, he seemed more dignified, more of a man than had hitherto been apparent to her.

"Non! Non!" cried out Jeanne, who had benefited unnoticed to an extent undreamed hitherto in her experience in matter delicate between man and maid. Her mistress raised a hand. She herself had almost forgotten that Jeanne was in the room. "Non! Non!" reiterated that young person. "Et was no neegaire child, pas de tout, jamais de la vie! I know those neegaire voice. It was a voice white, Madame, Monsieur! Apparently it wept. Perhaps it had hunger."

A sort of grim uncovering of his teeth was Dunwoody's smile. He made no comment. His face was whiter than before.

"Whose child was it?" demanded Josephine, motioning to the garments he still held in his hands.

"Hers?" He shook his head slowly.

"No."

"Yours?"

"No."

"Oh, well, I suppose it was some servant's—though the overseer, Jeanne says, lives across the fields, there. And there would not be any negroes living here in the house, in any case?"

"No."

"Was it—was it—yours?"

"I have no child. There will

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

"Something Just as Good"

A discovery can be made but once. After that all similar acts become emulation, imitation or an attempt at substitution.

Newbro's Herpicide is a discovery. It was the first remedy ever given to science to kill the dandruff germ. Other preparations have since been offered to the public, some similar in appearance, some in odor, but all bringing the daring promise of doing the same things that Herpicide has been doing for years.

Every article of this kind is merely one more instance of vicious emulation, vile imitation or a base attempt at substitution.

The "something just as good" story is old, why give it a thought? Herpicide is the Original Remedy. It kills the dandruff germ and prevents the hair from falling. Itching of the scalp stops almost with the first application.

Don't be deceived by "Something just as good." If your own druggist does not keep the genuine dandruff germ destroyer, Newbro's Herpicide, go to one who does.

never be any for me in the world—except—under— But now the flush came back into his face. Confused, he turned and gently laid down the faded silks across a chair back, putting it even with the one where lay Josephine's richer and more modern robes. He looked at the two grimly, sadly, shook his head and walked out of the room. "Madame!" exclaimed Jeanne, "it was divine! But, quelle mystere!"

CHAPTER XIII. The Invasion.

Dunwoody joined Jamieson below, and the latter now called for his horse, the two walking together toward the door. They hardly had reached the gallery when there became audible the sound of hoofbeats rapidly approaching up the road across the lawn. A party of four horsemen appeared, all riding hard.

"Who're they?" inquired the doctor. "Didn't see any of them on the road as I came in."

"They look familiar," commented Dunwoody. "That's Jones, and that's Judge Clayton, down below—why, I just left both of them on the boat the other day! It's Desha and Yates with them, from the other side of the county. There must be something up."

He advanced to meet the visitors. "Good morning, gentlemen. Light down, and come in."

All four got own, shook hands with Dunwoody, gave their reins to servants, and oined him on his invitation to enter. Jamieson was known to all of them.

"Well, Colonel Dunwoody," began the Honorable William Jones, "you didn't expect to see us so soon, did you? Reckon you'd ought to be all the gladder."

"You live here, my dear Colonel," he continued, looking about him, "in much the same state and seclusion remarked by Mr. Gibbon in his immortal work on the Decline and Fall of Rome—where he described the castles of them ancient days, located back in the mountainous regions. But it ain't no Roman road you've got, out there."

"I was going to remark," interrupted Judge Clayton, "that Colonel Dunwoody has anticipated all the modern requirements of hospitality as well as embodied all those of ancient sort. Thank you, I shall taste your bourbon, Colonel, with gladness. It is a long ride in from the river; but, following out our friend's thought, why do you live away back in here, when all your best plantations are down below? We don't see you twice a year, any more."

"Well," said the owner of Tallwoods, "my father might be better able to answer that question if he were alive. He built this for a summer place, an I use it all the year. I found the place here, and it always seemed too big to move away. We set three meals a day, even back here in the hills, and there's quite a bunch of leaves we can put on the table. The only drawback is, we don't see much company. I'm mighty glad to see you, and I'm going to keep you here now, until—"

"Until something pops open," remarked the Honorable William, over the rim of his glass. Dunwoody's neighbors nodded also.

FAIRS VIOLATING LAW

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 12.—Word has come indirectly to Secretary of State Frear that at some of the county fairs games of chance are being permitted by the authorities. Particular complaint is made of a "spindle" game and a "paddle" game.

ASTOR'S DREAM OF TITLE LOST IN VOTE

LONDON, Aug. 12.—William Waldorf Astor, multi-millionaire, American by birth, Briton by choice and descendant of the original John Jacob who laid the foundation of the Astor fortune by skinning skunks and other fur bearing animals, has just completed the fight of his life for an English peerage. He lost.

The passage Thursday night by house of lords of the veto bill ended Astor's dream.

Astor purchased the Weekly Observer and the powerful appeals of its brilliant young Irish editor, J. L. Garvin, crystallized the opposition to Balfour and Lord Lansdowne, whom he has bitterly characterized as "traitors" and "hedgers."

WINONA BRIDGE BASIS OF SUIT

The revenue derived by the Burlington Railway company from the Winona Bridge company, which controls the bridge crossing the Mississippi at the lower end of Winona, and assumed switching charges, form the basis of a suit brought yesterday by Attorney General Geo. Simpson against that railroad company. The suit is instituted to recover $16,000 alleged to be due the state in back taxes. The state maintains that the company charges to operating expenses the revenues from the Winona bridge and switching. These items, in the opinion of the state, constitute gross earnings on which the regular gross earnings taxes should be paid. The action which is brought in the Ramsey county district court, covers the earnings from these sources during 1903 to 1911, inclusive.

MANY BALL GAMES PLAYED TOMORROW

That the North side is a city of baseball players, as well as a city of baseball fans, is evidenced by the number of games which are scheduled for Copeland Park and elsewhere of teams composed entirely of players from the North side. Two games are scheduled for Copeland park, one between the Summit aggregation and Bangor, and the other between the North La Crosse team and the La Crosse Cardinals. Two of the teams, the Nelson Clothing company team and the Intestines & Spence aggregation, are scheduled for games away from the city, the Nelsons meeting Galesville at Trempealeau, and the I. & S. going to Viroqua.

WOMAN SMOKER LIVED LONG

Mary Frith, Highway Robber, the First of Her Sex to Use Tobacco in England.

Mary Frith, better known as Moll Cutpurse, was a notable figure in old time London life. She had the reputation of being the first woman to smoke tobacco in England.

The length of her days is a disputed point, but it seems certain that she attained the age of over threescore years and ten. It is asserted that constant smoking prolonged her life. A portrait representing her in the act of smoking forms the frontispiece of Middleton's comedy of the "Roaring Girl." She also figures in other plays of the period.

Mary was the daughter of a shoe-maker living in the Barbican, and Malone gives 1584 as the date of her birth. She early took to wicked ways and became a noted "highwayman." Among her familiar friends were the notorious Capt. Hind and Richard Hannam. She was an expert swordswoman. Single-handed she robbed on Hounslow Heath. Gen. Fairfax of 200 gold Jacobites, shooting him through the arm and killing two of his horses on which his servants were riding. For the offense she was committed to Newgate, but on paying the general £2,000 she obtained her liberty.

At one time Mary had £3,000 of her own, but by giving money to distressed cavaliers she died comparatively poor. Her death took place in July, 1659, and she was laid to rest in St. Bridget's.

THROUGH COMBAT TO VICTORY

Strong, Vigorous Character Arrives at Fruition by Wrestling With and Overcoming Obstacles.

It is the wrestling with obstacles and the overcoming of difficulties that have made man a giant of achievement.

If we could analyze a strong, vigorous character, we should find it made up largely of the conquering habit, the habit of overcoming, says Orison Swett Marden in Success.

On the other hand, if we should analyze a weak character we should find just the reverse—the habit of failure, the habit of letting things slide, of yielding instead of conquering—the lack of courage, of persistency or grit.

There is the same difference between a self-made young man, who has fought his way up to his own loaf, and the pampered youth who has never been confronted by great responsibilities that would exercise his powers and call out his reserves, that there is between the stalwart oak which has struggled for its existence with a thousand storms, with all the extremities of the elements, and the hothouse plant which has never been allowed to feel a breath of frost or a rough wind.

Every bit of the oak's fiber has registered a victory, so that when its timber is called upon to wrestle with storms and the fury of the sea, it says, "I am no stranger to storms; I have met them many a time before. I feel within me stamina and fiber to resist the fury of any sea, because I have fought and overcome its equal a thousand times."

The hothouse plant succumbs to the first adverse wind.

Remember I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time on this one disease and handling in the mean time a number of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what all you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write me TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my milk-soothing, guaranteed cure that will convince you in a day that no one else could in a month. I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me to-day you will enjoy more real comfort than you had ever thought this world holds for the truth. ## REMODELING SALE AT NELSON'S

CONDUCTORS WANT TO LIVE IN CITY

It appears that as soon as employees of the C. B. & Q. Railroad company are promoted to the position of passenger conductors, they are forced to remove to Minneapolis, according to a letter received by board of trade yesterday morning and to remedy this condition was the purpose of the writer. He asserts that the merchants, the churches and the city at large are harmed by the fact that these men are forced to go to Minneapolis, and that something should be done so that they can remain here.

The statement is made that the employees expect at all times to be moved as soon as they attain the position of conductor. It is believed that the majority of those men would own their own homes if they could remain here, and it is hoped that arrangements can be made so that they can stay here.

It is not the aim of the board of trade to interfere with the interests of the railroad companies or to work against them but it is thought that some arrangement could be made whereby passenger conductors can live in this city, says Secretary John L. Utermoehl. For the reason that these men realize that as soon as they are promoted to passenger conductors they will have to move to Minneapolis, they do not build homes here or make other arrangements which they would if they knew they were to remain here, and this undoubtedly works harm to the city.

This matter will be referred by President Doerflinger to a special committee composed of N. M. Scott, Peter Newburg, J. F. Felber, Herman Tillman, Thomas Stavrum, C. F. Figgie and J. S. Arenz, who will investigate the conditions and make a report.

CONVICT FLEES; GUARD IS SHOT

ANAMOSSIA, Iowa, Aug. 12.—The most daring jail delivery in the history of the state reformatory here took place yesterday and as a result Guard Allen Hamacker is mortally wounded with a bullet in the intestines and Convict Charles Schmidt, sent up for five years from Davenport, is at large with two former convict friends who shot Hamacker and rescued Schmidt by a trick.

At 9 o'clock yesterday a long distance telephone message was received. A man saying he was an attorney at Davenport asked the warden to allow him to talk to Schmidt about his case. The warden announced that Schmidt was some distance away working in the stone quarry. The attorney insisted upon talking to him and the warden issued an order for Schmidt to be brought to his office.

Guard Allen Hamacker started with Schmidt for the office and when half way from the quarry to the office was attacked by two former convicts in a buggy, who shot him through the intestines and disarmed him. They then tied the guard to a tree and escaped. Hamacker was found a short time afterward and was able to give the names of the former convicts who shot him and rescued Schmidt and officers are now on their trail with bloodhounds. Officials refuse to give the men's names at this time.

EAST CUTS DOWN WEST'S MAJORITY

Republican Editors Favor Veto of Free List, Wool and Cotton Bills by Taft

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Editors in every state in the union have been heard from in The Tribune's poll to ascertain editorial sentiment as to the wool bill, the farmers' free list and the cotton bill.

The editors, 2,534 in number, were asked whether they thought the president should sign or veto the bills. Of those asked 1,109 responded, 566 of whom were republicans, 387 democrats and 156 independent in politics.

A summary of the result follows:

Rep. . . . . 1,309 556 181 405

Dem. . . . . 817 387 370 17

Ind. . . . . 408 156 99 57

Totals . . . . . 2,534 1,109 630 479
As long as the poll was confined to the central and far west, the sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of the president signing the bills. As soon, however, as the eastern states were heard from, this majority was greatly reduced, eastern editors, especially republicans, favoring a veto of the measure.

Besides their tuition, the students of this school spend more than $50,000 for expenses alone, not to include the amount of money expended in pleasure. The many friends of Miss Adelaide Demmon will be interested in the following notice from a Los Angeles paper, as the bride was La Crosse born and lived here the greater part of her life:

"A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening, when Miss Adelaide Demmon became the bride of Frank L. Battle of San Jose at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Laura W. Demmon, 638 West Forty-first street. The Rev. F. N. Bugbee of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Pomona read the marriage lines and the ring service was used. The house was elaborately decorated with flowers and foliage, the ceremony being performed under a canopy of smilax and asparagus ferns, from the center of which was suspended a great wedding bell of white sweet peas. The walls of the reception rooms were festooned with ropes of ferns, and huge baskets of shasta daisies hung gracefully in the archways. The hall was decked with wall bouquets of pink hydrangeas and ferns. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Calvin W. Demmon, was attired in a gown of white satin made en traine. She wore a coronet of pearls in her hair, and the gift of the bridegroom, a gold necklace with pendant of amethysts and pearls, adorned her throat. She carried a shower of bride's roses. Mrs. George S. Phillips of Pomona assisted as matron of honor, becomingly gowned in a lace robe, and carried an arm shower of shasta daisies. The bridesmaid, Miss Marion Demmon, wore a gown of pink satin messaline and carried pink blossoms. The wedding music was under the direction of Miss Marthine Coates, Miss Dodd and Miss Dorothy Westerman. After a wedding supper with covers for fifty Mr. and Mrs. Battle left on a wedding trip through the north and will make their home in Sunnycrest, Cal.

A very pleasant reception and dance was given for the out of town visitors and summer cottagers in the town hall at Dresbach, Minn., Aug. 7. Every one had an enjoyable time. The out of town guests were Mrs. Scott, Mrs. G. Lindsay, Miss Wald of St. Louis, Mo., Miss O. Callakay of Milwaukee, Miss Wing of Tyler, Tex., Mrs. O. Lindsay of Pittsburg, Mo., and Mrs. Andrew Boyd and family, Miss M. J. Boyd, Miss M. Harrison of La Crosse, Miss Cleveland of Waterloo, Iowa, and Mr. W. Marsh of Minot, N. D.

IN THE MARRIAGE LOTTERY

Many Reasons Advanced Justifying Advice to Lonely Man to Marry a Widow.

Passing from these higher emotions of the soul, there remain many and numerous practical reasons for marrying a widow, says a writer in the Washington Post. In the first place she knows man, all his little weaknesses and foibles. She makes allowances for them, and even indulges the poor fellow in his more harmless follies, just as the experienced traveler from time to time gives the colt the rein. There is a wisdom in this that the young thing just graduated from the unbroken course of ice cream, soda water and theater parties might well desire to possess; it would save many a rude shock in beginning the stern realities of married existence. Another thing, she can cook. No 1 may have lived to eat the flaky biscuit and unimpeachable pastry of her making, but it is doubtful whether he was ever able to enjoy them. By the time she had mastered the art his indigestion had become irreparably damaged; he could only look and long and return to dry toast and tea. In a thousand little ways the second husband was the beneficiary and could truthfully acknowledge that dear John's loss was his own great gain. All of the testimony, however, is not of this character. Marriage is a lottery at best, and one may draw a blank in picking a widow just as easily as through the choice of an untied mate.

LUMBER INDUSTRY IS BUT A MEMORY

WINONA, Minn., Aug. 12.—The lumber industry in Winona is a thing of the past. The old plant of the Empire Lumber company, at one time one of the largest on the upper Mississippi, is today a mass of ruins, caused by the continual blasts of dynamite in that vicinity. The mill has long been out of use.

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., Aug. 12.—L. P. Ordway's yacht Phryne of the White Bear Yacht club yesterday led victorious in three consecutive races in the northwestern regatta on Lake Geneva. The Phryne, barring accidents, cannot be beaten for the championship in the races.

The Minnetonka boat held the lead to the Chicago Yacht club buoy and Fontana in the first round and on the first tack to windward on the beat home. Taking the lead there, however, the Phryne gained in every leg of the course, finishing ahead five minutes, forty-one seconds at the home buoy.

In class A, Marion Jean, Minnetonka entry won with an elapsed time of 56 minutes, 45 seconds. Handy Andy, Oconomowoc entry, was second and Wax Wing, the Delavan entry, third.

BEE BOTH BUSY AND BRAVE

It Never Seeks Notoriety But Resents Interference With a Vigor That Arouses Respect.

It was Maeterlinck who idealized the bee. The master of modern playcraft found in the busy insect a bookful of entertaining marvels. The bee is not only the symbol of industry, but it is the exponent of good government, of good order, of practical socialism.

Incidentally, the tiny creature is fiercely sensitive regarding its place, its home and its right to pursue happiness in its own uneventful way. In the Omaha Union depot two hives of bees fell off a truck, and the inmates buffeted and disturbed, swarmed through the great inclosure seeking the unknown enemy and speedily clearing the floor of everything animate. For an hour they held possession of the station, held it against all comers, until expert advice was called in and the marauders were lured back to confinement.

In England an accident of a similar character occurred when a hand hive was broken open in Waterloo station and a panic promptly followed.

But all the stories concerning the bee cannot be accepted without investigation. The bee never poses. It never seeks notoriety. All it asks is to be let alone—and it resents interference with a vigor and effect that are at times overwhelming.

A creature so tiny and yet so resolute, that can hold up all traffic at one of the leading railway centers of the country is entitled to a good deal of respect—and respect is a tribute which the bee has commanded even as far back as the promised land, which flowed with milk and honey.

Why Should I Use Cuticura Soap?

"There is nothing the matter with my skin, and I thought Cuticura Soap was only for skin troubles." True, it is for skin troubles, but its great mission is to prevent skin troubles. For more than a generation its delicate emollient and prophylactic properties have rendered it the standard for this purpose, while its extreme purity and refreshing fragrance give to it all the advantages of the best of toilet soaps. It is also invaluable in keeping the hands soft and white, the hair live and glossy, and the scalp free from dandruff and irritation. While its first cost is a few cents more than that of ordinary toilet soaps, it is prepared with such care and of such materials, that it wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of other soap, and making its use, in practice, most economical. Cuticura Soap is sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but the truth of these claims may be demonstrated without cost by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. M, Boston, for a liberal sample cake, together with a thirty-two-page book on the skin and hair.

REGULATION OF AUTOMOBILE

Resolution Offered Providing for City Sealer; Cass Street to Be Improved

That the police of La Crosse have been lax in their duty in enforcing the law regarding to wineries was the statement made last night by Alderman Roelling at the meeting of the city council, in answer to a statement by Alderman Marvin that some of the saloonkeepers of the city had kept their promises made to the committee on liquor licenses, and by means of which they had obtained their licenses. Roelling declared that it was not up to the council committee to see that the law was enforced, and he declared that if he was to be required to see that the law was enforced and that the saloonkeepers kept their promises, he would refuse to serve on the committee. In this he was supported by Alderman Downs, who is also a member of the council committee on liquor license. Alderman Downs declared that if the committee was to be expected to look after the enforcement of the law as well as to the instructing of the saloonkeepers, that he also would refuse to serve. No action was taken in the matter at last night's meeting, although Alderman Marvin declared that the winery law should be enforced, inasmuch as there was a law of the city relating to their regulation.

Alderman Marvin precipitated a hot argument in the council, when he declared that a certain saloon in the city had not kept to the promise of its proprietor to clean up. He mentioned this saloon as one among a number that had refused to tear out the partitions which shut off part of their saloons for a winery. Alderman Roelling in answering declared that Alderman Marvin was mistaken, and that the saloon in question had in reality complied with the winery law, in that the partition shutting off the back part of the saloon was of glass, and easily visible from the bar.

Fight on Badger Street
The council referred to the committee a resolution to close the west end of Badger street and give it to the La Crosse Plow company, after a heated argument, in which Alderman Mahoney declared that the resolution was illegal, and that the city had already given away more land than they could properly spare, when they closed the west end of Jay street for a manufacturing concern, and cut off all access to the river at that point. Mahoney characterized the measure as "special legislation for the La Crosse Plow company," and declared that there was a state law that property owners must pay the full value of land which is given them by a city in such a way. He declared that the value of the land was $3,500, and that the city had no right to give it to the plow company, as it might in the future need it for the erection of waterworks. The committee was instructed to report on the resolution at the next meeting of the council.

A resolution was also read which will establish the office of city sealer and weight inspector, and which provided that no person should use any weight in the limits of the city which had not been first examined and certified by the inspector. This bill was referred to the committee on judiciary and ordinance.

The council also passed a resolution making it illegal for any person younger than sixteen years of age, unless accompanied by his parent or guardian, to operate an automobile in the city. This bill, also provides that no car shall be operated unless the muffler is closed, and that all cars must be run with absolutely no visible smoke. A resolution to mail a copy of the ordinance regulating automobile traffic to every owner of an automobile or motorcycle in the city was also adopted.

A resolution was also adopted, which provides that cars on the street railway must slow up to six miles per hour at West Avenue and Market street and several other designated crossings which are much in use. This resolution provides for a fine of $25 for the motorman breaking the law.

County Taxes
It was decided that the city attorney take up the matter of county taxes with county and see that the city would be notified of its share earlier. He will also take the necessary steps for collecting delinquent personal taxes.

A fine of not over $25 was fixed as the penalty while if this is not paid the offender will be put in jail for not over ten days.

MASS-MEETING ON FREE BRIDGE

Secretary Taggart Calls Business Men Together to Arrange the Final Details

Representing the civic organizations and other forces in La Crosse that have been backing the free bridge movement, Secretary Harry Taggart has called for a mass-meeting of business men to be held in Linker hall, corner Fourth and Main streets, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, Aug. 15.

In his letter Secretary Taggart declares there are details to be arranged and work to be completed prior to Sept. 1, and that unless the business men act as a unit in the matter an opportunity that has come after twenty years of agitation may be lost. He predicts that if the plan does not swing now, the tolls will be with us for at least ten years more.

With companies organizing in both La Crescent and Hokah for the establishment of up-to-date general stores, elevators and stock yards, it seems probable that in the event the bridge is not made free La Crosse will suffer a loss of trade even greater than that sustained in the past few years.

Mr. Taggart is of the opinion that were the bridge made free and the La Crescent road promptly repaired, the stores and elevators planned in Minnesota would not be built.

"The business men of La Crosse are facing a real crisis," said Mr. Taggart today. "We have got to jump into the harness and pull this load over the hill, or we'll be stuck in a deeper rut than we have been traveling in in the past."

WOLGAST-MORAN PICTURES HERE

Dispute of Decision Will Be Decided at Majestic Theater Wednesday and Thursday

The Wolgast-Moran battle, for national honors and title of lightweight champion, which was staged in San Francisco on July 4th, just one year after the memorial battle which cost the white race the heavyweight championship, is without doubt one of the greatest events ever pulled off in the American ring, the loss of which would have practically stripped the United States of the right to claim supremacy over other nations in this fight, which have been procured by the management of the Majestic theater, will be presented in the afternoon and evening of Wednesday and Thursday, August 16 and 17.

Today Wolgast is the only white American who can claim an undisputed title, of one of the three leading classes, the middleweight championship having yet to be settled, although Papke claims the title.

Moran is undoubtedly a close second to Wolgast, being a man with an exceptionally heavy punch and speed as well as endurance. Furthermore, Moran claims that Wolgast won on a foul, having hit him below the belt, and although this claim was not sustained by the referee, considerable credence was given his story at the time, and numerous arguments followed. This is one of the things that can be decided from the pictures, and which will really prove to the people whether the United States or England has the right to the title.

During the battle Wolgast seemed to have a shade the best of the fight, although Moran went strong in several rounds. The final blow, which decided the battle, came in the thirteenth round and ended one of the hardest fought ring battles in the history of fightdom.

The pictures which are marvelously clear show every movement plainly, and a full hour is taken to run off the film. The exhibitions will start at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and continue until 5 o'clock and start at 7 in the evening and end at eleven.

POORHOUSE ENDS FORTUNE CHASE

tacked by fire and when morning rose it was over the charred remnants of what it had taken Mr. and Mrs. Jones a lifetime to amass. Never believers in banks the couple had entrusted their little savings to a "safe" nook in the cottage and this, with everything in the house, was completely destroyed by the flames. The aged couple barely escaped with their lives.

At the time of the fire there was a western land shark "working" the village. In glowing colors he painted life in the west. It was one grand fairy garden spot, he averred, and making money in the west was like cutting hay in the east.

Homeless and with nothing but a dismal outlook in the east the old couple were enthused by the lurid tales and prepared to come west and sip of the honey that was hanging on Montana trees.

Some of their good friends and neighbors protested, maintaining that they were too old to start on such a long journey, but the west was calling and Abner had a will as firm as the muscles years at the forge had builded.

The Journey Starts

The site of the cottage—all that was left—was sold and with a few dollars "loaned" by sympathetic friends, they started for the Land of Promise. They purchased a ticket to La Crescent, Minn. They didn't know just where that was but that was as far as their funds would take them and they knew that Minnesota was "awfully far from New York."

Wednesday night they alighted from the train at the little station across the river from La Crosse. They admit that they were surprised at not seeing Indians and were equally surprised to find the La Crescent folks looking very much like the folks back east.

Now for the first time realization of the folly of traveling without funds dawned upon them. They were penniless and friendless and they simply loitered about the station. It was close to dusk when they landed and when they remained at the station until after nightfall they attracted the attention of the villagers, particularly that of one Mike Shannon, section boss for the Milwaukee.

Shannon questioned them and bit by bit drew the story of their plans from them. Last but not least he learned that they were without funds and had had no supper. Things of this kind do not appeal to people of Shannon's nationality and in less time than it takes to tell it he had hustled them off to his home and his wife was preparing a repast.

Despite their protests that they weren't a bit hungry they ate heartily. They stayed at Shannon's Wednesday night but wanted to be off on their journey.

"But faith, and yez can't travel without funds," announced Mike. "Jim Hill and the rest up thim railroaders ain't in the business fer their health."

"I can work and I'm sure I could earn enough to pay for my railroad ticket," exclaimed Mrs. Jones and Abner announced that he could shoe a horse as well today as ever.

Mrs. Jones insisted that she was a splendid cook and as "young as she ever was," so a north side hotel was communicated with.

"Sure, send them over, we can

It was by this that the case was brought to the attention of the La Crosse county poor authorities. C. H. Berry was notified and he in turn communicated with David Aiken, one of the county poor commissioners.

At the first mention of going to the poor house the old couple became highly indignant. The poor house was no place for a couple willing and able to work, they maintained. They were prevailed upon, however, to stay there for at least a few days, and went there yesterday.

THE ADVANTAGE OF ELECTRIC STOVES

They Furnish the Best Solution of the Problem of Cooking in Apartments and Places Where Space Is Limited

TIME was, long ago, when the preparation of food for the table was esteemed an art, and civilization touched high-water mark; then came centuries when men ate chunks of beef that had been half roasted, half burned, before a great roaring fire, and the tide of civilization ran low, like an almost extinguished flame. To-day, by all progressive minds, cooking is esteemed not only an art, but a science—what it really is, or should be.

From the cook's point of view the ideal heat must be under instant and absolute control. It must be concentrated at the point where it is immediately needed. It should be easily movable from point to point. Electric heat comes the nearest, perhaps, to meeting these conditions. Control is absolute and perfect. Because the heat is applied directly to and immediately beneath the utensil in use there is no loss directly to and immediately beneath the utensil in use there is no waste. Moreover, there is a latitude in its use not possible with any other form of heat, because of the fact that a cord and plug are all that is necessary to connect with the source of supply wherever there is an electric light fixture. Improvement in apparatus and lower cost of production are now rapidly bringing electricity into common use for cooking purposes.

The coal range is an improvement over the wood-burning stove in so far as the heat is more regular and can be maintained more easily at a fixed intensity, but coal produces heat with ash, soot and coal gas, the last being harmful. Also coal is a heavy and dirty thing to handle. Oil produces heat with soot, smell and gas, and its use entails a certain degree of danger, though explosions with stoves of a good make are rare. Gas produces soot and carbon monoxide.

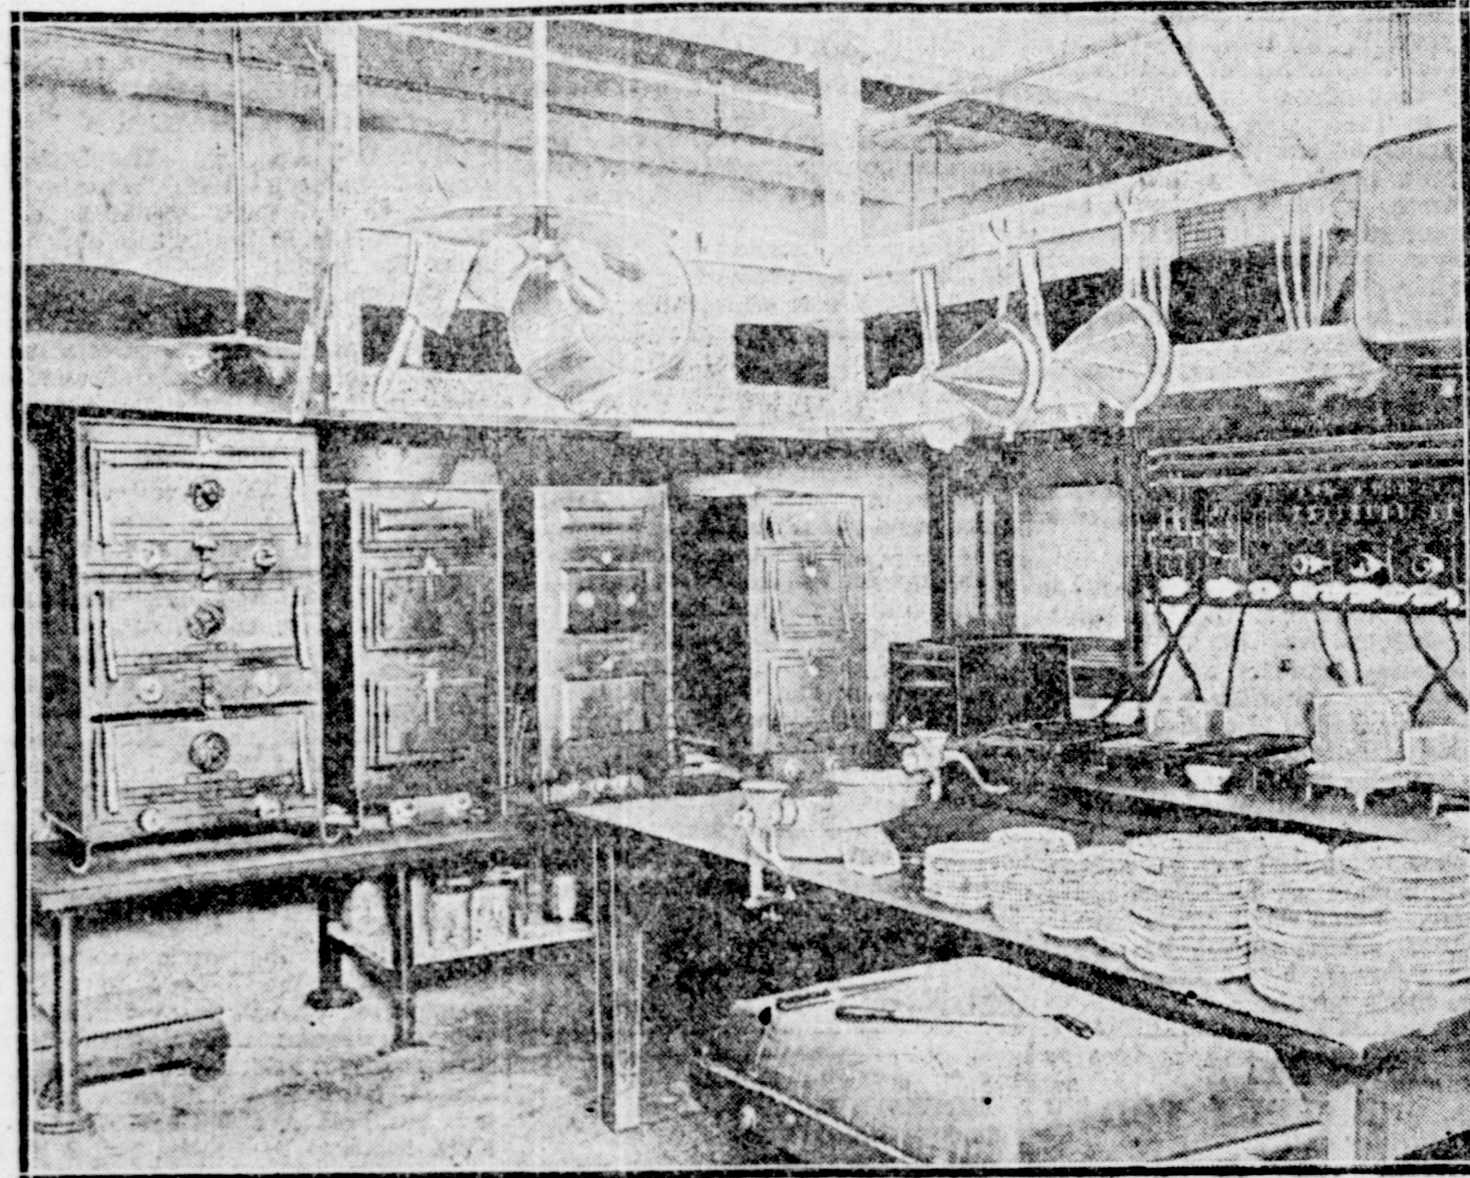

A generation ago it did not seem so necessary to consider the question of tric oven. In these electric ovens the heat is generated just where it is wanted, on the inside, and there are no products of combustion to be carried away. There is a three-heat switch, and cooking can really be done by the clock, not by guess.

By reason of the fact that no heat is thrown off by the electric devices, cooking may be done anywhere—on the breakfast table, or on the top of the piano, for that matter. In a small apartment it would not be a bad idea to place the oven in the lower part of a sideboard, and a chafing dish—which is a splendid combination cooker—and the coffee percolator on top.

That is, suppose one had a disk or heater marked five amperes, and it was being used on a one hundred volt circuit, it would use five hundred watts in an hour. Kilowatt means a thousand watts; hence, if the electricity costs 15 cents a kilowatt, the cost of using the heater for an hour is 7½ cents, when used at the highest heat

B.—Electric Kitchen in a Restaurant.

There are numberless individual appliances to which electric heat may be applied, such as flatirons, with one of which any amount of ironing may be done, as it remains hot so long as the current is on—baby milk warmers, curling-iron heaters, luminous radiators, etc. The luminous radiator is portable and produces heat immediately when the switch is turned. It consists of an ornamental iron frame fitted with a polished copper reflector and large cylindrical incandescent bulbs or glowers. The heat is quick, as the process is by radiation, and not by the slow process of setting up currents of warm air. This heater is especially advantageous for temporary heat on cool days, as the heater may be moved from one room to another as readily as a footstool, or it may be permanently placed in an open fireplace. With it there is the cheerful glow and warmth of an open fire without the danger of flying sparks or the inconvenience of handling fuel.

The cost of operating electric cooking devices depends, of course, upon the cost of current at any particular place, but when intelligently used, the expense should not greatly exceed that of gas.

There is no more magic in electricity than in coal, and carelessness, wastefulness or ignorance will waste this kind of heat just as it will that produced by gas. To begin with, the stove must be properly installed; to end with, it must be properly used. When these two things are cared for the cost of using such a stove is equivalent to using gas at 11 per one thousand feet. A simple explanation should make it possible for the man of the house, at least, to reckon average cost. We say man because it's sometimes difficult to teach even domestic science students being from 10 to 15 cents. Now, each cooking article is marked with its volts and amperes, and the volts multiplied by the amperes given the watts.

or speed. A chafing dish on at full heat uses five hundred watts, but in general chafing dishes are used about twenty or thirty minutes at a time, and the making of a rabbit would cost 2½ cents for the heat consumed. This computation applies to different electrical cooking utensils, and in order to know what it costs to run all or part of the stove, simple addition and multiplication alone are required.

In using the electric stove, if the same amount of care is used as in operating a gas range, the comparative price is as follows: Where electricity costs 5 cents per thousand watts and gas 15 cents per thousand feet, the cost for the electricity is about two-thirds more than for gas; where the electricity costs 10 cents, it costs three times as much as gas. But this is not all the story; convenience, cleanliness, little heat given off and no poisonous products, have to be counted also.

Oddly enough, electricity is frequently available in most remote places, along electric railways, near mines and in small towns where there is no gas plant, so that a country cottage may fit itself up with more modern, scientific and attractive cooking devices than are to be found in many wealthy city homes. But it is to the dweller in the tiny city flat that the electric cooking devices are perhaps the greatest boon.

DURING the very warm weather of 1908 experiments were made with cool pillows. The pneumatic pillow of rubber was found very comfortable. The hair pillow is cool, because it remains flat, the head not sinking into it as in the feather pillow. By spreading a piece of silk between the pillow and its case the ordinary pillow may be made cooler. The silk does not permit of the absorption of the heat by the pillow, and so it cannot be returned to the head. Iced water in a water bag will bring coolness in extreme cases. E. E.

USE OF MACHINES IN THE HOUSEHOLD

Women Need Proper Training in the Manipulation of Devices That Save Time—Follow the Instructions Carefully

WITH the increase in the numbers of household machines comes increasing bewilderment in the housekeeper's mind. She naturally turns for advice to a place where these things are tried, and asks confidently or confidentially, as the case may be, for a definite, specific naming of one machine. To be the best of anything, a household device or apparatus, just as much as a food or remedy, must fit the special need of the particular house and family, and these needs, in general, vary in every house on the block. The best in Number Thirty may be entirely out of the question in Number Forty-two.

Speaking generally, most of the fireless cookers are good. A good fireless cooker is a well-made, properly insulated one, constructed in such a way and of such material as to insure its keeping in a sanitary condition when used in a proper and cleanly manner. That is all the manufacturers can do. The results which will come from the use of that fireless cooker depend upon the user. The one to purchase is the one which best fits the needs of the buyer. Having purchased a good cooker, she must not expect that it will perform miracles unless she is a magician, and can put together the ingredients of which culinary miracles are made.

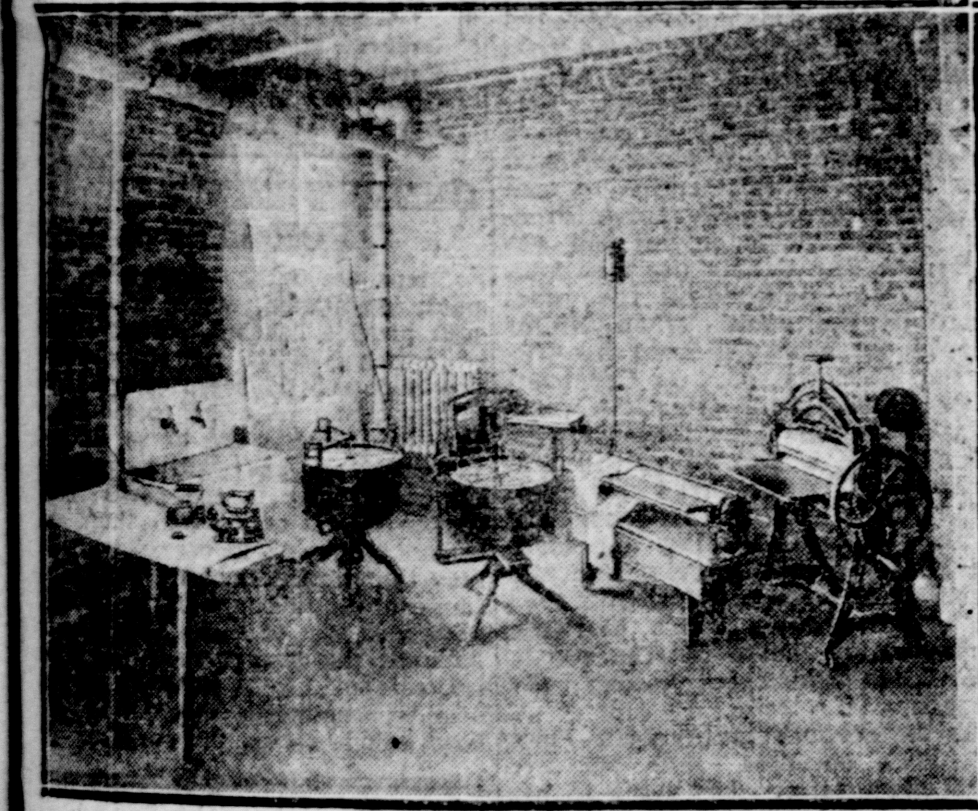

There comes an occasional complaint: "We have used so-and-so and it does not do the work." Investigation usually brings out one of two things: either the machine was sent without printed directions for putting together and its use, or else those directions were ignored. One fundamental fact must be accepted by the manufacturer, namely, that until within recent years women have received no training in the use of machines. In consequence the woman often prefers to be her own machine, exhausting strength and time, rather than adopt a patent device to save them. From time immemorial the boy has taken things apart to "see the wheels go round," while the girl has woman to discriminate between a good and a poor machine, and when the one she tries does not do all she expects she hopes, she condemns them all.

Carefully printed directions should be attached to each, even the most simple machine. Every manufacturer, for his own good, should see that this is done and the directions should be as carefully read and followed by the woman. A meat chopper will not chop with it knife turned wrong side to, or its grind or improperly put in. There is a main effort on the part of manufacturers to simplify household machinery and make it as easy as possible to use, but the women must meet this halfway; they are to have good tools—by learning how to use the good things already made.

Then when you have read and followed the directions given, if the machine does not work according to your expectations, write to the manufacturer—not the seller, but the maker—of the machine, and tell your troubles. The apparatus you have may be defective or it is possible that a few momentary instructions will smooth out all your difficulties. Such things have happened right here in the Institute, where they are mechanical engineers to help in testing the machines. One device did not do its work at the outset, but when a man from the factory came and showed how it actually went together our troubles were over. In this case no printed directions were attached to the machine, and if any came with it they had been mislaid. They should be attached so these mistakes will not occur.

the comfort of the cook as it does today, for most of the cooking was done by servants who accepted the discomfort as natural to their occupation. Then, too, kitchens were generally large rooms, with plenty of windows, and not likely to become intolerably hot.

FRUIT ESSENTIAL ITEM IN THE DIET

Great Food Value—How Fruit Sugars Impart Strength and Acids Regulate Digestive Functions

By H. IRVING HANCOCK

MAN has always thrived as he has eaten freely of fruits. We have the proof of this in that best of all crude tests, human experience. To-day that deliver after facts and reasons, the laboratory worker, is able to show why any diet that does not contain a reasonably liberal proportion of fruit is a deficient one. The food chemist and the physiologist can explain why this often neglected part of our food supply is needed in maintaining the highest bodily efficiency.

Perhaps, first of all, it should be stated that nearly all fruits are distinctly acid. Common examples are the apple, orange and lemon. The nature of the acid varies with the fruits. Malic and citric acids may be cited. In performing its complex functions, in carrying out the myriads of wonderful chemical actions that we denote as life, the body has need of some acid supply. This is stating in layman's language what might be amplified into pages.

Nor can the organism exist at its best without a wholly adequate supply of mineral matters. Of these such substances as the potassium salts, phosphorus, iron, lime and others are supplied by fruits. It is true that mineral matters are found in vegetable foods will be found much refreshed. Muscular exertion burns up invert sugar in the body. The fruits have supplied more, in a form that is readily made available; hence the muscles are ready for more work. As a parallel it may be stated that all military commanders are familiar with the spectacle of heavily burdened, long-marching soldiers eating nearby fruit when a halt is allowed.

Fruit Revives Tired Muscles.

The effect of invert sugars of fruits in reviving tired muscles is a great deal better understood than it was a few years ago. Cane sugar must act in the same way, though more slowly. The invert sugars most commonly found in fruits are glucose (grape sugar) and levulose (fruit sugar). It is because the invert sugars do not require as much "making over" in the body as cane sugar that they may be used more rapidly for the repair of muscular fatigue.

Grapes and some sweet cherries have been found to contain as much as 15 per cent. of invert sugar. Apples, gooseberries, raspberries and strawberries usually contain 7 to 8 per cent. of invert sugar. Some of the larger, early varieties of the latter, contain as low as 2 per cent. of this substance. For the relief of muscular fatigue the foregoing fruits, with the exception of apricots, are highly suitable.

Cane sugar also is usually found, though in varying quantities, in fruits. In the sour lemon this form of sugar does not usually reach above 1 per cent. In bananas cane sugar is present to the extent of about 11 per cent. In some kinds of plums the cane sugar content goes as high as 14 per cent.

Naturally, it is in the dried fruits that sugar is found in greater quantities. As high as 32 per cent. of invert sugar has been found in prunes; in English currants, 54 per cent.; in raisins, 61; in figs, 48; in dates, 66 per cent.

Why Fruit Is Laxative.

Apart from the sugar value of fruits there is another benefit that is common knowledge—their laxative effect. Few fruits act as actual purgatives. Their mildly laxative effect is due largely to the presence of cellulose, a woody fiber. This cellulose is little, if any, absorbed into the system, but its presence in the intestine acts as a mechanical irritant or stimulant. Fruit, therefore, should be liberally supplied in all diets where laxative effects are desired.

Most of the green vegetables act in a similar way through the presence of cellulose. It would seem, therefore, as though vegetables might be relied upon to perform this laxative work wholly. Experience, however, has proved that a judicious mixture of fruits and green vegetables in the dietary is more efficacious.

Of the fresh fruits there is a wide range, all of them excellent for laxative effect. Of the dried fruits figs are the best; of the stewed fruits, peaches, apricots, pears and apples appear to be the most useful, in the order named. It should here be remarked that the rhubarb stalk, while not botanically entitled to be regarded as a fruit, will serve excellently all the usual purposes of fruit in the ration.

Unfortunately, the matter of bulk in food is not yet as commonly understood as it should be. Briefly, the idea of bulk in food may be explained by saying that it is not sufficient for one to eat, every twenty-four hours, food that contains sufficient nourishment yet which does not make up much bulk or weight. Thus one could, by eating concentrated foods, obtain actual nourishment enough for the body, though eating daily only six or eight ounces of such condensed foods. The digestive tract of a grown person is built to handle a larger bulk of food; and the digestive organs, notably the intestine, would suffer from partial disease if only concentrated foods of small bulk were eaten. In other words, to insure the best conditions of health in the digestive tract, there must be a fairly good bulk of food to be handled there.

Bulk Needed in the Diet.

Fruits, like the green vegetables, are composed very largely of water. So much of water is there in both fruits and green vegetables that both classes are known as "dilute" foods. Such dilute foods are highly useful in making up the bulk of a meal without overcrowding the body with actual nutrient matter. Beef, for instance, is a concentrated food, cheese another. If one were to eat solely of cheese or beef, and only enough in quantity to meet the body's needs in nourishment, the body would not be bulk enough to keep the bowels healthfully active. Yet, if one were to eat only beef or cheese, and consume such a diet in quantities sufficient to satisfy the bulk requirements of the intestines, he would overtax his body with far more than he could assimilate to the body's needs. Hence the need of fruits and green vegetables as "dilute" foods to maintain the needed bulk of a meal without overcrowding at the nourishment end.

In actual tissue building elements the fruits are markedly deficient. Only those food substances known as proteins can be utilized in the body for building tissue. The most-used fruits contain 1 per cent., or less, of protein, as against 15 per cent. of protein in whole wheat, or 20 per cent. in some cuts of beef. The olive contains more protein than any of the other common fruits; namely, 2.5 per cent. By many amateur dietitians the banana has been greatly over-rated, some even calling it a fruit beefsteak. The protein (tissue-building food) content of the banana is 1.3 per cent., which is just the same proportion of protein as is contained in blackberries.

Fat is another food constituent found in low quantities in nearly all fruits. The exceptions are the alligator pear, with 10 per cent. of fat, and the olive, with 17 per cent.

Some Food Values.

It is, therefore, to the sugars and starches contained in fruits that we look for the gross food values. Apples contain as high as 13 per cent. of sugars and starches; bananas, 21 per cent.; blackberries, 8.4; cherries, 16.5; black currants, 13; grapes, 15; huckleberries, 16; mulberries, 14; muskmelons, 7.2; olives, 6; oranges, 11; peaches, 5.8; pears, 9.7; persimmons, 2.7; pineapples, 9.3; plums, 20; pomegranates, 16.8; prunes, 18.9; raspberries, 9.7; rhubarb stalks, 2.5; sapodillas, 16.5; strawberries, 6; watermelons, 6.7; whortleberries, 10.3.

While the sugars and starches do not build up bodily tissue, they supply heat and energy. An occasional glance at the foregoing paragraph will show the housekeeper the comparative values of the fruits as heat foods.

An arbitrary classification into flavor fruits and food fruits has been suggested and is sometimes used. This method of grouping places all fruits containing 50 per cent. or more of water in the flavor class, while those containing less water fall into the food class. Under this arrangement some of the best-known flavor fruits could be apples, apricots, alligator pears, blackberries, cherries, cranberries, currents, gooseberries, guavas, huckleberries, mangoes, mulberries, muskmelons, nectarines, oranges, peaches, pears, pineapples, raspberries, bilberries, rhubarb stalks, strawberries, watermelons and whortleberries.

In the food class would belong bananas, figs, grapes, olives, persimmons, plums, pomegranates, prunes and sapodillas.

Reference has already been made to the stewed fruits most suitable for laxative results. Among the fresh fruits the best are blackberries, cactus fruit, black currants, grapes, guavas, olives, peaches, pomegranates, raspberries, sapodillas and whortleberries.

In the case of fruits preserved with sugar much higher food values must be accorded than to fresh fruits, and this in proportion to the amount of sugar used in the preserving. The same is true of the food values of fruit syrups, which consist very largely of sugar.

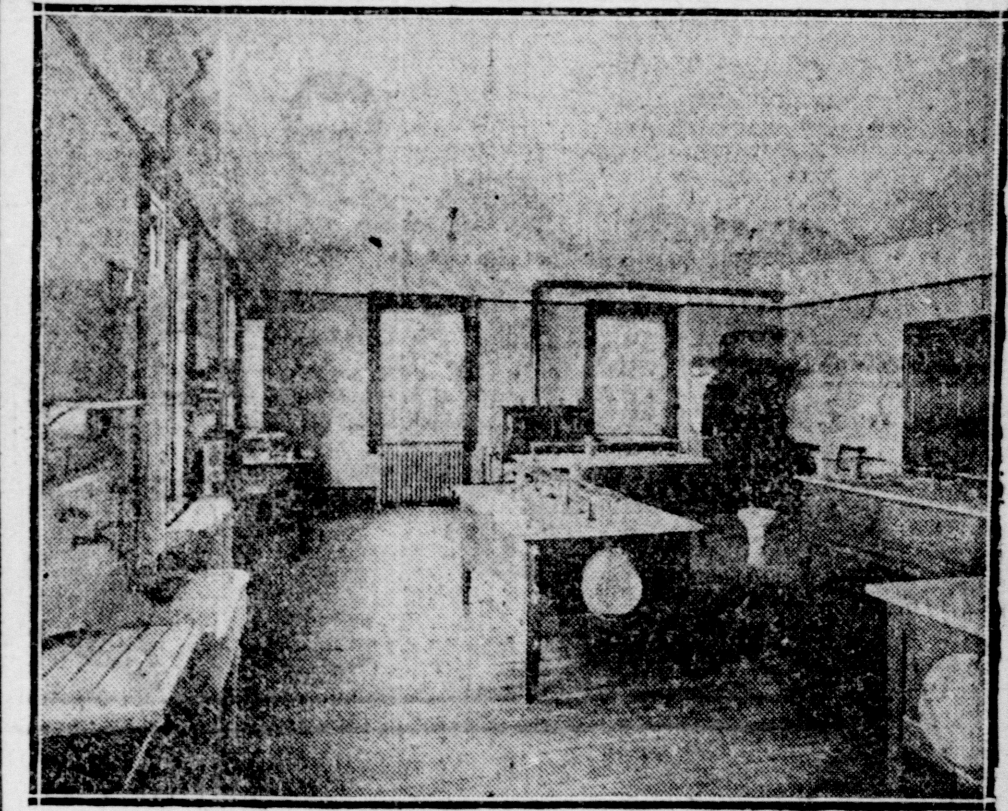

Many of the less expensive juicy fruits, such as grapes and cherries furnish, in their expressed (unfermented) juices, foods of no mean value. I well-known "faster" once assured the writer that he felt no inconvenience in undergoing a fortnight's fast if he drank freely of fruit juices. It appeared like news to him that in drinking such juices he received very full supplies of food, save in the matter of protein. Of course this "faster" did not feel oppressively hungry; a child fed enough candy could go for days without other food, though the wisdom of such an exclusive diet would be open to the gravest challenge.

The Best Breakfast Fruits.

Of all breakfast fruits the orange is decidedly the most popular. It is a food that is distinctly health-giving. Orange juice aids greatly in reducing the amount of putrefaction found in the intestines of nearly all persons who are submitted to clinical laboratory tests.

Grapes are another fruit that should always be eaten freely when obtainable. Apples are preferably eaten before retiring, and two are about twice as good as one. The apple habit, persisted in often works rather surprising results with persons who are naturally sluggish. Lemons can hardly be eaten as a fruit, but lemonade is a valuable beverage. When used as a laxative fresh figs should form the dessert when not obtainable the dried figs form a good substitute.

Of the value of bananas there seems some reasonable doubt. Many persons complain that they find them indigestible; they are quite likely to reach this conclusion if the banana be eaten frequently as the needless complement of an already hearty meal. On the other hand, there can be no doubt that the growing popularity of the fresh olive is fully deserved. It surely ranks with the orange and the grape, and is, of course, much ahead of either in cases of sluggish intestines or constitutional thinness.

ONE HUNDRED NOTABLE FIGURES IN BASEBALL

No. 75—Guy Hecker's Self Rising Career

To shut out the enemy, to fan the flower of the visiting flock, to pin base-runners to their bags so that a single step spells put-out, and to occasionally hurl a no-hit game—these things are very well indeed, and stamp the performer as a peer among pitchers. And to bang out a single every time at bat (generally speaking) except such times as he bangs out a double or a triple or a homer—these things, likewise, are very well, and add greatly to the player's acclaim. But when you find a man who pitches according to the above, and bats in the manner of the foregoing—

Well, then you have a marvel, or rather THE Marvel, otherwise known as Guy Hecker, of Louisville.

Guy Hecker was a pitcher, of credit and renown. He had a large useful determined right whip which he used whenever he went into battle for the cause of the Colonels. He could do more with that right than any pug that ever stepped over the ropes. He wasn't satisfied with being just a pitcher. He desired to have his name go down to posterity as a batter as well. And here's his name gone down, just as he wished it to go. He did everything for his own advancement, practicing until he had attained near-perfection along the lines he had laid out. He used his head to think with and asked favors of no one. Hecker's self-rising career is worthy study and emulation.

Guy had speed and control, and brains and brawn and a prize job with the lively Louisvilles. Toad Ramsey, a left-hand pitcher, was his chief rival in the old days, and the knowledge that Toad was fully equipped with the things desirable for a pitcher to possess kept old boy Hecker ribbed up all the time to do his best and to Gehenna with the speed limitations. If Toad pulled something good out of the box, Guy pulled something better—or tried to. And so it was that the spirit of rivalry bettered the ball of both and on the afternoon of September 19, 1882, Hecker pitched his first no-hit game.

The star of the Eclipse team of Louisville (they took a distinctive name, in those times, in addition to the name of their city) went against the Allegheny nine of the American association, the forerunner of the Pittsburgh outfit. As inning after inning was ripped off without the Pennsylvania crew drawing a hit, much less a run, the crowd became excited with the history that was being made before their eyes. When Guy got through and there still hadn't been a sign of a single, the fans allowed that the gent had done a good job, and toted him around the field in token of their esteem.

But that wasn't all. Just to show that he had versatility and could do the notable with the stick as well as from the box, our guy young Guy gets out one sunny August day—the fifteenth of the month in the 1886 year, if you like to save these dates—and beat the ball so unmercilessly, that when they came to count up time, they found Hecker had hammered for three home runs, and three singles, or a total of fifteen bases, which was considered a fair aggregate in those days. This slaughter eventuated in a game Louisville played against Baltimore. All going to show that Hecker was one grand little Guy.

Monday—Buck Ewing, "The absolutely perfect ball player."

MOOSE PICNIC TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Postpone from last Sunday, on account of the rain, the big Moose picnic will be held on the agricultural school grounds at Onalaska tomorrow, the committees in charge having arranged a program which they are certain will interest everybody. If the weather is good tomorrow there will undoubtedly be a large crowd on the grounds for a good time is assured and all attending are certain of having a pleasant time. Plans for a fine picnic have been consummate, so many will undoubtedly be on hand to enjoy the day's outing.

U. S. ATHLETES BATTLE TODAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A heavy rain may slow up some of the athletes who will compete on Marshall Field today in the national A. A. U. all around track and field championships. Eleven stars are entered. Frank Thompson, who won the event last year, is the favorite.

DIAMOND DUST

President Lynch has reinstated Sherwood Magee, pending good behavior. It is to be hoped umpires do not bait the Phillies' wonderful fielder to another outburst of temper.

Isn't it a pity some one can't lift Charley Doolin's "suspension" and permit the great catcher-manager to re-enter the game? With Magee and Doolin in the line-up, the league leaders would have to hustle.

Christy Mathewson has proven himself the "come back" heaver. After being trimmed to a frazzle by the tail-enders, he shut out the orphaned Phillies, the Giants winning 6 to 0.

Luderus, the Philadelphia slugger and home run getter, was struck out four times, a feat both cruel and unusual.

Charitable Charley Murphy wanted to buy a Rockford pitcher for $100 down and the balance if the twirler made good. The Rockford management could not see it at all.

Although the Mackmen dropped one of a double-header to the Red Sox the world's champions still are in front in the pennant race. Managers Tenney and Dahlen both were put off the field for scrapping with the umpires in the Boston-Brooklyn embroglio. Now why in the world should the managers of those teams want to argue a decision?

Will you kindly pause in your daily avocation and watch those Senators? They actually are winning ball games from real teams. Will wonders never cease or is Johnson trying to earn that $7,500 per?

Monday the Cubs start for their eastern invasion. It is to be wondered if they will return home in their present high estate? Watch the Pirates, please.

MURPHY WANTS A ROCKFORD STAR

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 12.—It seems unlikely that Pitcher Slapnicka, of the local team, will become a Cub. President Murphy priced him, but insisted the price was too high. The Cub magnate offered $100 and certain other sums in case the twirler made good in fifteen days' trial. George Buser, owner of the Rockford team, refuses to consider the proposition.

SUPERIOR CLUB AFTER PENNANT

Kid Taylor's Huskies Take First Game from the La Crosse Outcasts, 4 to 2

HEAVY GROUNDS CAUSE

Hits Off Brent; Dahlgren Goes Stale, in Ninth

Misjudged balls, and slow work on the part of the players, together with bunching of hits in the fourth frame, gave the first game of the series to Kid Taylor's Superior aggregation yesterday afternoon by a score of four to two.

With the exception of the fourth inning when the Northern club landed for three safe hits, Brenton pitched good ball, but due to slow fielding, had eight hits marked up against him. Dahlgren, the star twirler of the Superior club was sent in to work and had the Outcasts at his mercy until the ninth inning when he weakened, allowing two runs to be scored by the Outcasts.

Price played center field in the place of Kernan, who has been playing that position since he injured his shoulder at Winona. Kernan is not yet able to throw the sphere in from the garden. Price was unable to judge the ball, not having played in that position before.

The first three innings of the game were played without either club procuring a hit and only nine Outcasts and ten Red Sox came to the plate in the first third of the contest.

Brenton opened the fourth inning by giving Gardener and Hoffman free transportation to the initial sack. Landry then pounded out a single, advancing Hoffman to Black's corner. Dolan singled, sending Hoffman in from third for the first tally of the game while Landry advanced to station No. three. Ford then poled out a clean hit which sent both Landry and Dolan prancing over the rubber. Lizzette was thrown out at first by Brenton but this allowed Ford to go to third. Grogan then hit to Snyder who came in on the run, and threw to Wais catching Ford at the plate. Lippold ended the first half by hitting a ground ball to short.

The Taylor Kids made their fourth and last run in the first of the ninth inning when Dolan opened with a clean hit, and stole second. Ford struck out and Biddy scored on a hit by Lizzette. Lizzy stole the next sack and was caught trying to take third, on Grogan's grounder to Brenton. Lippold hit to Snyder and was retired at first ending the first half.

Dahlgren weakened in the final round of the game when Malloy planted out a single, Kelly sacrificed and Klein walked. At this point of the game, Malloy and Klein worked a double steal, the former Pirate getting such a lead off second that Lizzy didn't even throw to third.

Price then landed for his second hit of the day scoring Malloy and sending Eddie to third. Burke who had taken Wais' place in the eighth then hit to left garden for a sacrifice, sending Klein home for the second run. Black struck out ending the contest.

In the seventh inning both Price and Wais obtained hits but two were down before they came to bat and Black hit an easy grounder to Grogan at second and was thrown out at first.

Grogan, who was released to Superior by Manager Ted Corbett of the Rochester club, owing to his inability to hit, managed to make two of the eight bingles while Biddy Dolan annexed two singles and a double. Score in detail:

CEMENT BENCHES FOR CITY PARKS

Plans are being drawn by the park commission, which, if adopted, will provide benches, entirely made of cement, except for six slats on the back and the seat, for the parks of the city. According to the drawings the benches are to be six feet in length and they will be permanent, remaining in the parks both winter and summer, for there are cement props which extend two feet into the ground, making the bench immovable. Although it is improbable that any of these benches will be built this year even if the plans are accepted, it is likely that one may be constructed in order to see how well it serves the purpose.

The W. B. U. is Getting Bigger and Better Every Year

We Present a View of the New Typewriting Department of the Wisconsin Business University.

This is only one of the improvements made in the W. B. U. this year. Something is being bettered every day. This year we have worked harder than ever to make our equipment perfect, the rooms wholesome and sanitary. Our courses of study are always up-to-date and in accordance with the very best methods used in the business world. The W. B. U. is famous for its excellent work and the wonderful success of its graduates. This kind of success can only be secured by a school that is financially sound, that uses up-to-date methods, that has complete courses of study, that employs only the best teachers (and has plenty of them) and that is recognized by business firms all over the country as a school that turns out, not only "graduates," but competent office people—Bookkeepers and Stenographers—people who know a modern office appliance when they see it and who know how to use it.

To make a success today you must be able to do something special and you must also know how to do it right. No matter how bright you are, if you haven't special preparation in some way, Mr. Businessman has no place for you. Also, there is too much competition in the "don't know" and "can't do it right" class. We never get enough of the best—there are not enough to go around.

Another thing to be considered:

No school, public or private, can prepare you for business the way you must be prepared, unless it makes a specialty of business education. We teach nothing else. To turn out successful students a school must specialize; its courses must be thorough and its teachers must be practical bookkeepers and stenographers. Also, the student must devote his or her entire time to the subject to get the best results. You can do this only in a business school. The best results can only be secured in a good business school.

The Wisconsin Business University has been located in La Crosse for more than twenty years, is one of the largest business schools in the United States, has spent thousands of dollars telling the public of its work and success in educating young people for high grade positions and then securing the positions.

More than Eight Thousand Toland Graduates Have Been Sent to Positions by the W. B. U. We feel that it is useless for us to try to publish a list of names of our successful students. Our office walls are literally covered with photographs of successful students. We have thousands of commendatory letters from these people. We cannot convince you of the superiority of the W. B. U. merely by advertising and printing lists. We want you to call on us, see these photographs, read our students' letters. Read the letters from firms who employ from one to one hundred of our students. We want you to look over our equipment. We are proud of it, as it can be duplicated by but a very few of the finest schools in the world. Come up and get acquainted with us and if we cannot convince you that the W. B. U. offers you more than any other school of its kind, in every way, we will not expect you to do business with us.

Our proof will not consist of what we have to say about ourselves, but by the success of our graduates and by what our students and others say about us.

THE FOLLOWING LETTERS ARE GIVEN AS PROOF OF THE MORAL, FINANCIAL AND EDUCATIONAL STANDING OF THE W. B. U. THE FACT THAT THERE ARE NOW MORE THAN 8,000 W. B. U. STUDENTS HOLDING POSITIONS IS SUFFICIENT PROOF THAT WE SECURE POSITIONS FOR THEM.

Mr. Leigh Toland—My Dear Sir: I take pleasure in commending the Wisconsin Business University to parents who want to give their sons or daughters a good business education. What pleases me especially is that you insist on good moral conduct of your pupils. FIVE OF MY NEPHEWS have been in your school and all of them are doing well. With best wishes,
Sincerely yours,
JAMES SCHWEBACH,
Bishop of La Crosse, La Crosse, Wis.

"We know the Wisconsin Business University to be all right financially and educationally. This school is owned and managed by Mr. Leigh Toland. Under his direction the school has had its largest attendance, has enjoyed its greatest prosperity, and has been conspicuously successful in locating graduates in desirable positions. We employ W. B. U. graduates and have found them competent and efficient. We have done business with the Wisconsin Business University for several years and, as before stated, we know it to be sound educationally and financially."

Dear Sir: In answer to yours of the 20th inst., I take pleasure in stating that your graduates employed by this company have given satisfaction as shown by frequent promotion. The sum total of annual salaries as shown herewith is between $10,000 and $11,000.

E. D. PONSONBY,
Supt. Emp. Dep., G. N. R. R.

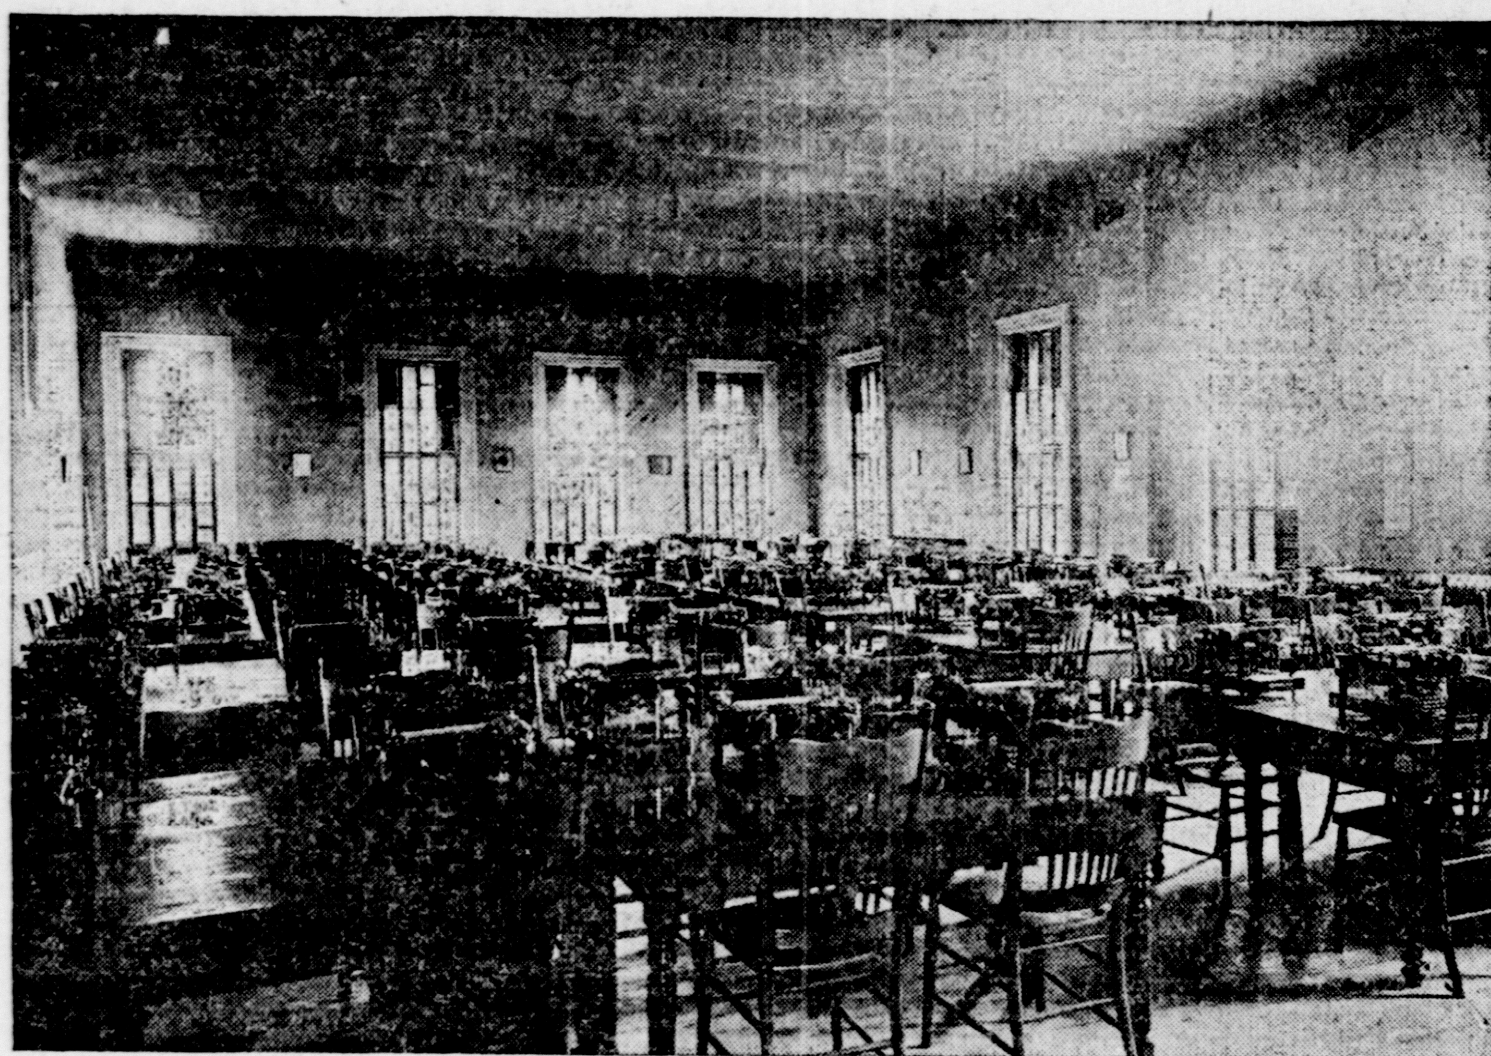

Mr. Leigh Toland—Dear Sir: By direction of the Pastors' Union, I beg to advise that at the regular meeting of the body held December 13, 1909, the question of giving our endorsement to the Wisconsin Business University was considered.

So general was the high esteem in which the president of the institution was held and the individual good will and appreciation of the worth of the school as attested by its known alumni, that by UNANIMOUS VOTE THE PASTORS' UNION expressed its endorsement of the Wisconsin Business University and its enterprising president, Mr. Leigh Toland.

Yours cordially,
REV. IVER LARSEN,
REV. J. S. LOWE,

REV. G. D. ELLIKER.

St. Cloud, Minn., March 16, 1909.
Dear Sir: Answering your inquiry regarding annual aggregate salaries paid your former students now in the employ of the International Harvester Co. of America, will say that a conservative estimate would be from $10,000 to $15,000.

Yours respectfully,
F. W. MILLER.

With the exception of the terminal points of railroads and packing companies' offices, this is the largest and most complete typewriting department west of Chicago.

The W. B. U. shows the largest and most expensive shipment of typewriting machines ever brought into La Crosse at one time. The value of the machines shown in the photograph, all No. 10 new model, visible Remingtons, with tabulator attachments, is $7,500.

Every department of the W. B. U. is now organized to the smallest detail, the school having reached the highest degree of efficiency in its history.

Preparations are being made for the accommodation of nearly five hundred students.

La Crosse, Wis., June 5.
Dear Sir: In answer to your request will say we believe your students receive thorough preparation, as all you have sent us have been very competent. As to salaries paid your students now employed by the Gund Brewing Co., will state that the combined monthly salaries of your graduates now in our employ is $2,438.83 or a total of $29,265.96 per annum.

Yours respectfully,
GUND BREWING CO.
Have employed ten more since above was written. Per C. G. K.

St. Paul, Minn., March 7, 1909.
Dear Sir: I herewith submit list of your graduates with this company and salaries paid them. While some of the figures shown may be over or underestimated, it is safe to make the aggregate $15,000 per annum.

Yours truly,
W. E. WADSWORTH,
N. P. R. R.

Huron, S. D., March 9, 1909.
Dear Sir: We are unable to verify, at this office, the list of your graduates in the employ of the C. & N. W. R. R., excepting as to this division. Unofficially, however, and from my personal knowledge, will say that a fair estimate would be between $25,000 and $30,000 per annum. So far as my personal experience goes, your graduates are always given the preference.

C. J. DE LACEY.

Dear Sir: Replying to your letter of recent date, we are pleased to say that you certainly prepare your graduates for practical work. Those sent us have proved unusually satisfactory. As to salaries paid, we herewith hand you figures showing the annual salaries paid your students by Swift & Co. at the present time. As near as can be estimated we are now paying your graduates in round numbers $12,000 per annum.

Let us hear from you whenever you have promising material you can place with us.
SWIFT & CO.
Have since employed seven more.

South Bend, Ind., March 6, 1909.
Dear Sir: The students you have sent us have proved exactly as representative, and whenever we need more clerical help we shall call on you. As to the amount of salary paid your graduates now employed by this company, will say that the yearly pay roll for your graduates is in round figures $6,000.

STUDEBAKER MANUFACTURING COMPANY.
Have since added four and have called on Mr. Toland for at least twenty bookkeepers and stenographers that he could not supply—all competent being employed.

Dear Sir: I have been employing your graduates for the past ten years and you have never sent me anyone that was not thoroughly competent. Seven of your graduates are now in the employ of this company at La Crosse.
